$50,000 BAIL IN PLOT ON U. S.

FBI Roundup Heads Off Widespread Bomb Drive

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (AP)—Federal officials today declared the arrest of 17 men and seizure of a small arsenal had merely "scratched the surface" of a terrorist plot to overthrow the United States government.

W. G. Bishop J. F. Cassidy

Viebroch Prout

Eighteen men were taken into custody in the raids, but one of them was released a few hours later when it was discovered that he was a victim of "mistaken identity."

Arraigned before Federal Judge Grover Moscowitz in Brooklyn, sixteen of the men pleaded innocent and were held in $50,000 bail each for hearing Feb. 5.

They were charged specifically with "conspiring to overthrow, put down and destroy by force the government of the United States, and oppose by force the authority thereof; also to seize, take, and posses property of the United States."

BOMBINGS PLANNED

One of the 17, Macklin Boettger, 32, did not appear and was to be arraigned later.

The courtroom was filled with friends and relatives of the men, several women wept as the prisoners were led away.

"More arrests" were predicted by United States Atty. Harold M. Kennedy, who said that FBI agents under J. Edgar Hoover were "virtually forced" to act now because their investigations indicated a series of bombing outrages was imminent.

Kennedy disclosed that FBI agents closed in on the suspects Saturday night because they had received information of definite instructions issued ot one of the plotters to set off a bomb in a public place.

The plot, he said, included plans to blow up buildings, raid utility plants and government offices, "liquidate" Jews, assasinate a dozen unidentified congressmen and set up a dictatorship.

HINT IRA LINK

Kennedy said he regretted it had been necessary to close in on the men at this time, but added that the type of mind which would conceive so grotesque a program of terrorism would be capable of perpetrating an outrage that might causce great damage and bloodshed.

"We expect more arrests," said Kennedy. "We have merely scratched the surface in making arrests thus far."

He said his investigators and FBI agents were chacking to determine whether the alleged plotters had been sending ammunition and arms to the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Hoover, in announcing disruption of the alleged plot, said those

Rome Plane Forced Down Off Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Italian embassy announced that the Italian airplane seeking a new world's distance record landed on the Brazilian island of Fernando Noronha today, about 300 miles short of her goal in Patagonia.

Under command of Col. Angelo Tondi, the Italian plane took off from Rome at 8:20 a. m. (2:30 a. m. Boston time) Sunday.

She had been in the air 32 hours and 25 minutes and had covered about 4400 miles of her projected flight at the time given for the landing.

The mark fell far short of the world record of 7162 miles established by two British royal air force planes Nov. 5-7, 1938, in a flight from Ismailia on the Suez Canal to Darwin, Australia.

Tondi reported by radio earlier in the day that his fuel was escaping through a leak and he was proceeding on two motors trying to make Fernando Noronha.

2 Bombs Seized In East Boston

Two United States navy aerial bombs were found by East Boston police today in the home of a man in London st.

Each bomb, with firing pin intact, was about two feet long.

Sergt. John S. Wellings and a squad took the man into custody for questioning, and Sergt. Edward J. Seibolt, police ballistics expert, examined the bombs.

The raid, Sergt. Wellings said, followed an anonymous telephone call.

BELGIANS, DUTCH CALL UP MILLION

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 15 (AP)—Under virtually complete mobilization, the armies of Belgium and the Netherlands were massed today behind frontier defenses to meet any German threat to the Lowlands' neutrality.

War Diary

135th Day

By the Associated Press

War shadows today fell heavily across the northern neutral nations arousing their fears that Scandinavia and the low countries might be engulfed in Europe's two wars.

Belgium and The Netherlands, wedged between warring Germany and the Allies, massed about 1,000,000 men on their eastern frontiers as a precaution against any German attack. They indicated the defense measures were inspired by reports of German troop concentrations opposite their borders.

High Berlin sources called the war scare "made in Paris" and repeated that Germany had no intention of enlarging the conflict to include the small neutrals.

Scandinavian apprehension grew from worsened relations with Soviet Russia and signs that the Red army was ready for a new major offensive against embattled Finland.

Kalkas, 60 miles from the nearest Finnish territory, was raided yesterday while Soviet airplanes bombed a score of southern Finland's cities.

Part of the raids centered on the Turku-Helsinki railway, a link with ship lines which bring supplies from Scandinavian neighbors

Close to 1,000,000 Belgian and Netherlands soldiers were reported already at or ordered to positions along the meandering border—a 300-mile wall through which Germany would have to smash to outflank the British-French allies on the western front.

(Germany in the past has denied planning any such maneuver.)

In Belgium, there were disturbing reports of new concentrations of Nazi attack troops, while in the Netherlands, a government communique spoke of "certain less favorable symptoms in the international situation."

DENIES HIDDEN THREAT

The semi-official Belga news agency however, issued a note in Brussels denying what it called "alarmist stories" being "spread in Belgium and abroad"

'No threat has been hidden from the Belgian public," the note said, "and the independence of sources of information and the liberty of the press should inspire calm . . . Belgium remains calm, but the army is on its toes."

Several newspapers expressed the view the latest phase of Belgian preparedness would be revoked shortly.

ON WAR FOOTING

Belgium bustled about the task of stepping up her defensive powers. Throughout Sunday, soldier-laden trucks rolled through Brussels toward the frontier, while messengers, throughout the country, summoned officers and men from their homes, churches, cafes and theaters.

The Brussels government put into force "phase D" of her mobilization plan, filling in the ranks of skeleton units with such specialists as machine-gunners, artillerymen and tank drivers.

The final step for complete mobilization would be enforcement of

Reds Again Rain Bombs On Finns

HELSINKI, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Russian air force, attacking again after unleashing yesterday the worst aerial offensive of the Russian-Finnish war, resumed bombing raids on south Finland today.

Two air alarms were sounded in Helsinki shortly after noon. No damage was reported downtown, but some bombs were reported to have fallen in the outskirts.

It was intensely cold and the Soviet planes flew extremely high.

As a result of yesterday's widespread attack Finns feared that Russian strategy called for a powerful assault on behind-the-lines morale to break military resistance at the front.

Civilians of a score of southern Finnish cities and towns surveyed the ruins of homes and public buildings caught in the sweep of Sunday's far-flung air raids.

It was indicated that Vasa, important coastal city on the Gulf of Bothnia and railroad center, suffered the severest damage among the larger cities. Business structures in the city of about 32,000 population were destroyed and at least 12 persons were reported dead.

Flames spread in a number of smaller towns where fire fighting equipment was inadequate.

It was estimated nearly 20 towns and cities were bombed.

In attacks lasting four hours the Russians dropped hundreds of incendiary bombs, and along the Turku-Helsinki railway and elsewhere were reported to have swooped low to attack civilians with machine guns.

Dowd's Wife Tells Her Own Story

By GEORGE HOLLAND
Copyright, 1940, by Boston Evening American

On a most gloomy Sunday, with a sou'easter making up and the rain preparing to pelt, your reporter talked with Mrs. John F. Dowd in the first interview she has given since she came home to Boston New Year's Eve after an absence of six weeks.

Mrs. Dowd found it impossible to choke back tears as our talk got under way, and the elements—atmospheric and dramatic—were perfect for a sob story.

But this will not be one. It will turn out, probably, to be a love story. Anyway, it will answer some questions which must be in the public mind.

One of these questions most certainly will NOT be, where is Mrs. Dowd's husband, the fugitive former sheriff of Suffolk County?

I did not ask her that one. That is not our business, because in the exciting game former Sheriff Dowd started by playing hare on the night of Nov. 20, the police are the hounds, and rightly so, because that is what they are paid for.

If anyone is silly enough to ask Mrs. Mary Dowd such a question, here is the answer:

"Even if I did not have a right I would die first before giving any information that would hurt my John. After all, there isn't much for me to live for without him."

That was her explanation—voluntary—when the discussion veered toward the delicate subject of her missing husband's present whereabouts. But it was not offered definitely, nor with bravado.

It was an expression of how she felt, and how she will continue to feel, whatever the pressure, and it is this attitude, which preempted the surmise, above, that this would turn out, probably, to be a love story.

WHO PAID INSURANCE?

Do not be discouraged, please, at the prospect of a lot of mush and avowals of faith, or a Celtic copy of Fannie Brice putting new words to the done-to-death "My Man" motif.

Many questions, we will answer, practically verbatim as we took them from the lips of Mary Dowd, who, after a halting start, talked willingly and eagerly for a long time.

The tears kept wetting her cheeks now and then, but for the most part, she—the really tragic figure of the Dowd case—was composed and coherent.

Here are some of the questions which will be answered.

Who was the mysterious woman who paid $3000 in life insurance premiums on policies which all held one name as beneficiary, Mrs. Mary Dowd?

Was there another woman, as hinted in some press reports, in the life of former Sheriff John F. Dowd?

What about those "champagne parties" at the Charles Street Jail?

What about those charges that men and women guests at the country's forbidding hospices mingled when the regulations said they shouldn't?

Did former Sheriff John F. Dowd take money from scrub-

Ex-Sheriff John F. Dowd vanished from Boston on Nov. 20, while detectives were speeding to the home of Milton relatives. It was on that day that his resignation was turned in to Gov. Saltonstall.

Meanwhile the sheriff had spent a weekend in New York, where on the morning of Nov. 18 Dowd was picked up injured on a street. He had $6000 with him.

Released from a New York hospital within a few hours, Dowd and his wife aped back to Boston, only to vanish again. Indictments on his alleged mismanagement of affairs at Suffolk County Courthouse followed.

Mrs. Dowd returned to the city on New Year's Eve on a train which reportedly had come from the West through Albany, N. Y.

BOY DIES UNDER ICE IN HARBOR

One boy was drowned and another narrowly missed the same fate in his efforts to save his companion while playing on treacherous harbor ice cakes at the end of Byron st., East Boston, today.

The drowned boy was Joseph Curry, 15, of Wordsworth st., East Boston.

With his brother John, 11, and seven other companions young Curry was playing among the ice floes, jumping from one to another.

A companion, John Clayton, 14, was far out on the ice field and called to the others that the ice was thicker out there. In jumping from one cake to another the elder Curry slipped. The cake turned over and he went down.

Clayton jumped to his rescue, but the bobbing cakes proved insecure footing and his heavy rubber boots prevented him from reaching Curry in time. Again and again he tried to grab Curry, whose heavy clothing gradually pulled him under.

Meanwhile the other boys had run for aid. Clayton was near exhaustion when police arrived.

Police and firemen were unable to find Curry's body immediately.

Jail 3 in Tower Magazines Fraud

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (AP)—Catherine McNelis, president, and two other officers of the defunct Tower Magazines, Inc., were sentenced today to a year and a day imprisonment for mail fraud. Others sentenced were her brother, John, circulation manager, and Joseph E. Flynn, business manager. The firm was fined $700.

The government charged advertisers were defrauded of $1,000,000 by excessive rates based on false circulation figures.

2 Hurt, 40 Shaken In Cambridge Crash

More than 40 passengers were shaken up, two men were injured and tons of inflammable fuel oil flooded the streets today when a Boston Elevated bus was in collision with an oil truck at Western and Putnam aves., Cambridge.

The oil truck tipped over on its side, bumped into a fire alarm box and firemen responded immediately, guarding against danger of flames from spreading oil.

Treated at Cambridge City Hospital were Louis Sykes, 69, of Borne st., Norwood, and James A. Nugent, 51, of Austin st., Cambridge, who was operating the truck.

Sykes, a bus passenger, is suffering from fractured ribs, internal injuries and shock. Nugent was suffering from cuts.

The bus was carrying 47 passengers, many of them standing as it approached the intersection.

Benjamin F. Preston, of Wellington rd., Medford, operator of the bus, escaped injury. Many of the passengers reported slight injuries, but refused to go to the hospital.

Firemen quickly began washing the oil into drains and the city public works department rushed loads of sand to the scene to spread over the area.

14 Guilty in Raid on $1,000,000 Pool

As aftermath of a spectacular raid on a Somerville office suite allegedly used as headquarters by a $1,000,000 number pool ring, 14 of a total of 30 defendants pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges in Middlesex Superior Criminal court today.

Of those who threw themselves on the mercy of the court, two were women.

A third woman and 14 men asked Judge Frederick W. Fosdick for time to "think over" what pleas they would offer. They were given a short time.

ONE ASKS JURY TRIAL

Only one defendant, Max Goldman of Fessenden st., Roxbury, demanded a jury trial.

The 14 who pleaded guilty were each charged with conspiracy to set up and promote a lottery and with conspiracy to maintain a room for registering of bets.

Among those who delayed their pleas was Joseph Hotze of Crescent st., Brookline, so-called "big shot" of the alleged number pool ring, and his brother, Edward, of Seaver st., Roxbury, alleged manager of the Somerville "headquarters."

Guilty pleas on the two counts of conspiracy were offered by Gerti Needlick of Wyoming ave., Roxbury, and by Mary Bencal of Bradford st., South End.

ALL PLEAD GUILTY

The 12 men who pleaded guilty to the same counts included Louis Hodess, Mattapan; Harry Portney, Mattapan; Joseph Russo, West End; Harry Ginsberg, Mattapan; Sidney Ochs, Allston; Israel Levenson, Boston; Max Stepner, South End; Max Soreff, Mattapan; Jacob Spielman, Dorchester, Arthur Taylor, Winthrop, and Louis Geller, Dorchester, and Benjamin Geller, Brookline.

Hodess, Portney, Russo, Ginsberg, Ochs, Levenson, Stepner and Mary Bencal also pleaded guilty to being present where apparatus for registering bets was in use and pleaded guilty to setting up and promoting a lottery.

These latter defendants were among 2 arrested in the Somerville raid.

This was staged Aug. 31 under direction of Dist.-Atty. Robert F. Bradford.

State police and Somerville police swooped down on the office suite in Elm st., at an hour when it was claimed the alleged number pool ring's "big shots" and agents were meeting to settle up accounts.

GALE WHIPS N. E., CLOSES SCHOOLS

Driven by a gale which at times reached 65 miles an hour in velocity, rains forced the closing of Greater Boston schools, produced auto accidents by the score and crippled sea and air transportation before subsiding today.

At Madison, Me., 16-year-old Anna Morrison dropped dead on her arrival at Junior high school. Medical Examiner Dr. Lester F. Norris said she died of a heart ailment caused by over-exertion in the storm.

The wind slackened shortly after daybreak and an official reading placed velocity at 38 miles maximum. For the first time this year the thermometer read above 40, reaching 41 at 4 a. m.

By noon the wind had died down and the skies cleared, but shipping was delayed.

An even dozen ships were due in port this morning and all were behind schedule. The New York boat Acadia was an hour late, the Merchants and Miners boats Alleghany and Nantucket were five and six hours late respectively.

STORM WARNINGS FLY

Storm warnings were still flying along the coast.

A precipitation of 2.39 inches was recorded at New Haven. Boston's precipitation was 1.30 inches. That would have meant 13 inches of snow had the temperatures been colder, according to the weather man.

Throughout New England, telephone company officials reported 4592 telephones had been disrupted by the storm, caused mostly by short circuits.

Boston was saved $250,000 in snow removal costs because of rain and high temperatures, Commissioner George Hylan said.

The heaviest snow fall reported in New England was at Andover, Me., measuring 14 inches.

As the gale reached full force, a gasoline supply boat broke loose off Fish Pier in Boston harbor and menaced navy yard piers when it appeared on the verge of crashing ashore in Charlestown.

Three officers aboard the police launch Pierce, sent to the scene by Radio Dispatcher Austin Long, risked their lives by stationing the Pierce between the heavily-loaded fuel ship and shore.

So imminent was the possibility of a crash and explosion that a fire alarm was sounded from the navy yard, while the fireboat Angus McDonald was rushed to the aid of the police boat.

Also sent to the scene were the towboat Luna and a Coast Guard harbor boat. The gasoline supply craft, the converted schooner Mary A. Lynch, was taken in tow and tied up at the North End pier after an hour's battle.

BOATS DRIVEN ASHORE

Meanwhile, the swordfish sloop Cokey Flo, engulfed by waves, sank at T wharf, and another fishing boat was driven ashore off Marginal st., East Boston.

Huge waves wreaked damage along the ocean front in Winthrop, Revere, Quincy and other seaboard communities. Combers broke over Winthrop shore drive, inundating side streets and flooding cellars in many homes.

Highway mishaps, caused by blinding rain and slushy roads, raised the week-end toll of deaths in New England to seven. Latest victims were:

Harold Sullivan, 17, Weymouth High school athlete; Eugene Asselin, 45, Lowell; Repi Theodore, 64, York ter., Brookline; Alfred Taylor, 32, Lincoln, R. I.; Miss Anna Russell, Berlin, N. H.; and Edwin T. Curley, 20, and James Lannon, 19, both of Middletown, Ct.

In Charlestown, Laura Evans, 20, of Fuller st., Brookline, was struck by a skidding auto today as she was crossing Chelsea st., near the navy yard. At City Hospital her name was on the danger list.

Coast Guards of the Straitsmouth station saved the Gloucester dragger Dorothy from piling up on Thatcher's Island, off Gloucester.

Luxembourg Houses Damaged by Shell

BRUSSELS, Jan. 15 (AP)—Reports from Luxembourg said one shell landed on the Luxembourg side of the Moselle river near Perl today in an exchange of French and German artillery fire. Three houses were damaged, but no one was injured.

Boston Truckmen Renew Wage Parley

With threats of sudden strike averted, representatives of 5500 truck drivers and a group of motor freight carriers resumed further conferences over wages and working conditions in the industry today before the state board of arbitration and conciliation.

At the same time, it was announced at the State House that Boston piers and freight terminals had been completely cleared of freight which accumulated during a 48-hour "holiday" called by drivers last Wednesday and Thursday.

Deb Beauty Is Bride Of Steel Heir Weir

Slim, dark-eyed Mrs. Gretchen Bremer Knowles of Milton, one of Boston's prettiest debutantes, was married for the second time Friday, her mother, Mrs. Clifton L. Bremer, revealed today.

The former Mrs. Knowles, in a simple and quiet ceremony in Milton, was wed to Ernest Weir, Jr., son of the well-known Weirton, W. Va., steel family.

The couple, each divorced recently, were married after obtaining a waiver of the Massachusetts five-day law and left immediately on a honeymoon.

The bride, a member of the Junior League and the Vincent Club, was divorced last September at Reno from Robert C. Knowles of Hingham.

The couple had two children, Gretchen, 6, and Robert, 3, against whom kidnaping threats were made a few years ago.

DIVES OUT WINDOW AS COPS COME

Alleged to have leaped from a second-story window when police sought to arrest her on a child-neglect charge, 25-year-old Mrs. Margaret Dorsey, formerly of Somerville, was in serious condition at Somerville Hospital today.

Doctors said she had a fractured pelvis, a fractured ankle, and, possibly, internal injuries.

According to Somerville police, a warrant for her arrest has been outstanding since 1937. On a tip that she was living in Marshall st., Medford, Patrolmen Garnet Reid and Augustus Cidado went to that address with Police Lieutenant William McLaughlin of Medford.

Painfully injured by the 20-foot fall, she tried to run, the officers said.

When Mrs. Dorsey was unable to appear in Somerville court today, a default warrant was issued against her, to be served when she is discharged from the hospital.

Police said she told them she had no child and could not understand the charge.

Owner of Piggery Appeals Jail Term

Charged with failing to properly feed and water his pigs on a Maynard farm, James R. Harvey, 67, of Wilmington, received a three-months' jail sentence in Concord District Court today.

Acquit Jersey Man In Death of Wife

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Jan. 15 (AP)—Gaylord Donald Joy, 33, was a free man today, acquitted by a jury of manslaughter charges in the mysterious death of his wife, Ethel, 34.

The defendant's father, A. R. Joy, a Troy, N. Y., shirt company executive, heard the verdict returned. The defendant's mother collapsed. Joy claimed he was on a "drinking spree" before his wife was injured and had left her in a saloon.

Trawler Asks Aid As Sailor Runs Wild

Battling heavy seas 380 miles east of Boston, the fishing trawler Crest today radioed the Coast Guard for aid when one of its crew ran amok.

The vessel's master radioed to Coast Guard headquarters, asking that a patrol boat take the man off. Because of the high seas Coast Guard planes were not dispatched. The nearest patrol boat was instructed to proceed to the scene.

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, psoriasis, poison ivy, and irritation about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying Resinol Ointment. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch, and eases the irritation.

The soothing effect of Resinol takes the sting from the irritated places and makes you more comfortable. The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol, as its oily base holds the medication in active contact with the tortured parts.

For gentle cleansing of irritated skin, Resinol Soap is excellent because it has no excess of free alkali and is so refreshing. Many nurses suggest and use Resinol Ointment and Soap—why don't you try them?

Grief Dazed Mother Fears Death's Return

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan 15—While a dazed, grief-stricken mother lived in constant terror death may strike again, medical science took up the challenge left by a virulent streptococcus germ which killed two children and placed their three sisters and another child near death.

Declaring further laboratory tests are necessary to determine final cause, Dr. Lester A. Round, director of the state department of health, launched investigation into the strange infection which brought sudden death to 7-year-old John and 3-year-old Elton Brierly.

Fighting for their lives in Memorial Hospital were three sisters, Marion, 10; Violet, 5, and June, 20 months, as well as Jane Desecoteaux, 5, who lived on the floor above that occupied by the John Brierly family in Lewis st.

Physicians said the children showed marked symptoms of the infection which previously had sent the mother herself to bed and also her two other children, Virginia, 12, and Isabelle, 4, all of whom recovered.

DOCTORS FIND CLUE

The symptoms, doctors said, are represented in a high fever, labored breathing, affected speech, numbness and a general choking condition.

Physicians indicated they were at first completely baffled, but that a clue to the infection was provided after parents consented to an autopsy on John, who died Sunday, 15 hours before his older brother.

Initial laboratory tests of vital organs pointed to a streptococcus organism.

The Desocoteaux child recently recovered from an attack of scarlet fever. The organism which causes scarlet fever is "very similar" to the organism that produces symptoms such as indicated in the cases of the children, one medical authority said.

ENTIRE FAMILY ILL

One by one, a bewildered mother saw her children and finally herself rendered ill by the murderous infection over a period of a week. At first, she erroneously attributed it to food the family had eaten.

Only last Monday, her husband, a mechanic, had recovered from a three weeks' seige of pneumonia.

A week ago Saturday, Virginia suffered a stomach attack. She recovered Sunday.

On Tuesday, Marion became ill, then Isabelle, and John and Elton, who died, and finally June and Violet.

A double funeral will be held for the young brothers tomorrow.

Chinese Yell Routs 3 Bandits in Hotel

The screams of a terrified Chinese foiled an attempted holdup by three masked gunmen in the Brigham hotel, Washington st., theatrical district, today.

Bernard Myerson, the desk clerk, was accosted by the armed trio, who wore handkerchief masks. The Chinese, Leroy Moy Dow of Oxford pl., who evidently had not been noticed by the bandits, let out a yell that put them to flight, according to police.

CRASH CAR, VICTIM

ONE DIED, FOUR HURT—Tragic ending of high school dancing party is this . . . wreckage of car after South Hingham crash, in which Harold Sullivan (inset), 17, Weymouth athlete, suffered fatal injuries. Seriously hurt were Elsie Regan, Eleanor Reinnier, John Gardner and Edwin Finley.

$515 KNEE RULING IS REVERSED

Driving a car with one hand on a girl's knee and the other on the steering wheel is not "gross negligence" the full ench of the Supreme Court ruled today in upsetting a $515 jury award for injuries to Margaret Bruno, Woburn waitress.

Miss Bruno had sued Arthur F. Donahue, Arlington carpenter, as the result of injuries suffered when the car turned over on the Middlesex turnpike, May 26, 1936.

She said he had driven with one hand on the wheel and the other on er knee despite remonstrances. Failing to make a turn wen the car struck a soft shoulder in the road, it turned over.

At the conclusion of testimony in Middlesex Superior Court Donahue's counsel asked for a directed verdict for him.

He said Miss Bruno had not proved Donahue had acted with "gross negligence" and that his conduct had not been "wilful and wanton."

The Supreme Court today reversed the jury's verdict, saying:

"We are of the opinion that the circumstances of the defendant's driving with his right hand on her knee would not warrant a finding of gross negligence."

Two Husbands, One Wife Ask For Divorces

A plea that her wedded life was "an accumulation of everything unpleasant" was made in Salem Probate Court today by Mrs. Dorothy Balfour Burlingame, Swampscott, who sought a divorce from John L. Burlingame, whom she married May 26, 1935.

She told Judge John V. Phelan her husband was constantly bickering with her. Arguments would start in words and end up in punches, she said.

He slapped her on several occasions and in June, 1937, threw her on a divan, slapping her down every time she tried to get up, Mrs. Burlingame testified.

His school-teacher wife did not like housework and he had to get his own meals, Arthur Fowler, Newburyport, testified as he sought a divorce from Madeline O. Fowler, Amesbury.

For just seven weeks did Betty Lipman live with Harold Lipman, of Symphony rd., Back Bay, he said in asking a divorce. They were married in October, 1934. On Dec. 23 she told him she was going home to her parents for a visit. She has not returned.

All of the petitions were taken under advisement.

4 Hurt in Death Crash Improve

The condition of four other occupants of the auto in which Harold Sullivan, 17-year-old Weymouth athlete, lost his life when the car he was driving skidded into a tree, was described by Weymouth Hospital authorities today as "slightly improved."

Elsie Regan of Brook terrace, Weymouth Landing, suffered a broken ankle; Eleanor Renny of Pond st., North Weymouth, sustained a fractured leg and head injuries; J. Bradford Gardner of Hohobmack rd., North Weymouth, was severely lacerated, and Edward J. Finley of Manomet rd., North Weymouth, suffered a fractured wrist and lacerations.

Hospital authorities added that while the injuries were serious, steady improvement of the patients was anticipated.

Thieves Cart Away Safe and $1000 Cash

The Publix Market, Poplar st., Roslindale, was robbed during the night of the week-end receipts of over $1000, it was reported to police today.

Leo Saltzman, Brunswick st., Roxbury, an employe of the store, discovered the break. The thieves carried away a 250-pound safe containing the money.

MOTHER OF DOLL GIRL HITS VERDICT

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Jan. 15 (AP)—Corp. Benjamin Franklin found vindication today for the fatal shots he fired into the body of 14-year-old "Doll Girl" Joan Stevens in his acquittal on murder and manslaughter charges resulting from her death.

The handsome, 30-year-old suspended State trooper beamed and said he felt "good" when a jury of nine men and three women announced its verdict late yesterday.

From Mrs. Mayne Stevens, mother of the slain girl, came the comment:

"I lost heavily. The Commonwealth can now go out and kill other children."

Franklin's future remained uncertain. Suspended since the shooting occurred, he still must face a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Dist. Atty. Albert Helmbach said it was "too early" to determine whether the charge would be pressed.

Franklin's superior officer, Major William A. Clark, announced he would be reassigned to duty as soon as "the charges against him are terminated."

Previously both Major Clark and Col. Lynn G. Adams, State Police commissioner, had indicated acquittal on the murder and manslaughter charges would automatically mean reinstatement to the police force.

Franklin stood with his attorneys as the verdict was announced. He licked his lips and appeared nervous. John Stevens, father of the slain girl, also was in the courtroom, but his wife, who collapsed in the closing hours of the trial was not present.

Tolling of a bell in Carbon County's ancient courthouse at 4:45 p. m. announced to the countryside that a verdict had been reached. The bell clanged 15 times. But the courtroom already was well filled with spectators, some of whom arrived as early as 7 a. m.

'Ham 'n' Eggers' Cut Demands to $20

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15 (AP)—"Ham 'n' eggs" isn't the "$30 every Thursday" pension plan any more.

Willis Allen, one of the sponsors of the proposal twice defeated by California voters, announced the organization would seek only $20 weekly for citizens over 50 at a third election next August.

Instead of "$30 every Thursday," the slogan will be "$20 now."

Roosevelt to Tell Views on Finn Loan Soon in Letter to Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt informed congressional leaders today he would send a "communication" to Congress shortly on extending aid to Finland.

Senate majority leader Barkley told reporters, after an hour and a half conference with the President, that "we discussed the whole situation with reference to Finland, and the President will send a communication to the two houses in the very near future."

The communication, he said, will "speak for itself."

When reporters asked whether it would contain any specific recommendation, Vice-President Garner suggested that they "wait and see."

When Bankhead returned to Capitol Hill, he told newsmen that he believed the "solid sentiment in America is in sympathy with the Finns but as to the ways and means of our giving any assistance I have come to no definite conclusion."

"I mean the methods, if any," he added.

Bankhead said the President's communication probably would be a letter addressed jointly to himself and Garner.

The Speaker said he was not at liberty to disclose details of the letter.

The United States' own defense needs continued to occupy the House naval committee today. Admiral Harold R. Stark testified before it that the navy needed submarines larger than those of some foreign powers because undersea operations might be required in the South Atlantic.

Edward J. Noble, undersecretary of commerce, testified that the administration's reciprocal trade program had a dollars-and-cents value and, also, had opened up new avenues for the exchange of goods and services upon which world peace and prosperity depended.

Noble was the third administration witness to appear in behalf of the program before the House ways and means committee. It is considering legislation to extend the program three years beyond the June 12 expiration date.

The Senate judiciary committee appointed a subcommittee to hold hearings on the perennial anti-lynching bill which the House has passed.

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, Republican leader, predicted that the House, if "permitted" to act, would approve the congressional budget study proposed by Senator Harrison (D.) of Miss.

Committee O. K. Given Murphy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Senate judiciary committee approved today the nomination of Atty.-Gen. Frank Murphy to be a member of the Supreme Court, succeeding the late Associate Justice Pierce Butler.

Members of the judiciary committee reported there was no dissent on the vote aproving the appointment.

The committee also approved President Roosevelt's nominations of Solicitor-Gen. Robert H. Jackson to be Attorney-General and of Judge Francis Biddle of Pennsylvania to be solicitor-general.

Gannett to Enter Presidential Race

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (INS)—Frank E. Gannett, newspaper publisher, will formally announce himself as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination at a dinner to be held in his home city, Rochester, tomorrow night, according to a report circulated today in New York political circles.

Gannett's announcement would probably deprive Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Dewey of unanimous support of the New York delegation of 92 to the G. O. P. national convention, it was indicated.

Msgr. Hurley to Give Broadcast Thursday

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Vatican announced today that Msgr. Joseph P. Hurley of Cleveland, O., would broadcast to the United States Thursday in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the foundation of the pontifical Society of St. Peter the Apostle for the native clergy.

The broadcast by the U. S. assistant in the office of the papal secretary of state is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., E.S.T., on a wave length of 48.47 meters.

SEN. NORRIS BACK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Senator Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska returned to the Senate today after a two-weeks' physical checkup in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

N. H. PRIMARIES EYED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (INS)—Democratic and Republican chieftains today began training their sights on New Hampshire to see whether the state sheds light on the outcome of next November's presidential race in its election March 12 of delegates to the two national conventions.

The New Hampshire presidential preferential primary will be the nation's first in the 1940 campaign.

On the Democratic side, the voters may express their views on the third term issue, as some of the candidates will be men pledged to the renomination of President Roosevelt.

Other candidates for places on the delegation will be pledged to Vice-President Garner, Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt and possibly Senator Burton K. Wheeler.

On the Republican side, the chances are the voters will elect an uninstructed delegation, despite the fact that a native son, Sen. Styles Bridges, is a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination. This outcome will be no blow to Bridges, who himself is running as a candidate for delegate at large "without instructions."

Few observers here expect New Hampshire to send a Roosevelt delegation to the Democratic convention. Principal obstacle to this is the President's own silence on a third term, and his refusal to do anything openly or actively to obtain the nomination.

If the New Hampshire voters do elect some Roosevelt delegates, it will be due largely to the personal activity of the candidates who run on a third-term pledge.

The Garnerites in New Hampshire will be fighting the third term issue directly and publicly because the Vice-President is seeking the Democratic nomination "regardless of all other possible candidates."

If Your Ankles Swell You Can't Feel Well

Do your ankles swell, or are you tired and worn out a lot of the time with dark circles under your eyes? If so, the cause may be functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney trouble. The Kidneys work night and day cleaning and filtering excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. Because they never get a real rest it's easy to see that as you grow older the Kidneys may get tired functionally and slow down. Then excess acids and wastes may accumulate and poison your system. So if your ankles swell or you have to get up nights or suffer burning, scanty or frequent passages, backache or nervousness, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney or Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has been so successful in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a positive guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. BOSTON GROUP REPUDIATES REVOLT PLOT

Boston's "thousands" of followers of the Christian Front leadership are mostly "misled" in the belief that Fr. Coughlin is a sponsor of that organization, Boston police said today.

In an interview with reporters in Supt. Edward W. Fallon's office, Detectives Benjamin Goodman and William Gouldston said there was no evidence to indicate the local group had any revolutionary designs.

PERMIT FOR GUN

Later, Goodman and Gouldston went to the Front headquarters and ordered hotel employes to open the door for them. The walls were hung with placards urging persons to join the Front, and in the tiny office were piles of membership forms and blanks

"The organization is definitely anti-Semitic," they said. "Most of the members think Father Coughlin has some connection with it. Last year, Father Coughlin addressed a meeting they held in the Boston Arena, but it was on a rebroadcast piped in."

The Christian Front in Boston and Massachusetts is not a powerful organization, according to the detectives.

Francis P. Moran, 31, local organizer, applied to police last year for a permit to carry a pistol, describing himself as a lecturer and offering as the reason that his life had "often" been threatened.

The permit expired Dec. 31 and was not renewed.

Arrest of the New York members of the group came as a shock to Moran, whose offices are in a Copley sq. hotel, and whose home is in Harbor View st., Dorchester.

"Good heavens," he said, "the whole purpose of the Front was to uphold the Constitution! I will say in New England there never was any talk, and never will be any, of seizing power by force."

INTRODUCED LEADER

He said that he had once studied for the priesthood, and that after he had given it up he became interested in the study of philosophy and of political theisms.

Moran also admitted that he introduced John Cassidy, one of those arrested in New York, to a Boston meeting, but disclaimed that he had known Cassidy well.

"I just heard he was leader of the Brooklyn branch of the Front," he said.

"I can say that there never has been and never will be any talk of bombings or seizing of power in the New England district as has been charged by Federal agents in New York.

STARTED A YEAR AGO

"Our organization here is a voluntary one and I started it a year ago and have complete charge of it here.

"After giving up my studies for the priesthood, I became interested in the study of philosophy, Communism and all subversive movements. People have claimed that Father Charles E. Coughlin began it. That is not true, although we do agree with Father Coughlin on many points."

Moran first came into the news when he appeared before the Massachusetts Legislature in April, 1938, in the hearings into subversive inroads made in New England.

Later he was a leader in the protest which arose when a local radio station considered banning the radio time sold to the Detroit priest.

"Our group has been accused of being anti-Semitic," Moran added. "That is a false accusation. I have defended Jews but we have denounced the leadership of Jewish radicals."

BASED ON PEACE

Asked if Jews may join the Christian Front, Moran said they could if they would subscribe to the political and ethical principles of the Constitution of the United States. He explained:

"By upholding the Constitution we seek to condemn and combat Communists and radicals and to preserve Christian civilization.

"I have no sympathy whatsoever with the ideas that the arrested men in Brooklyn are alleged to have had. We would not tolerate any such activities in New England."

Another identified with the organization here was Mrs. Hannah Connors of Milton, head of the Real Estate Taxpayers' Association, who stated she was "most surprised" at the arrests in New York.

in custody were members of an inner circle of the Christian front, an anti-Semitic organization.

More than half the suspects, he said, served in the active or reserve branches of the armed forces of the United States or were members of the New York National Guard.

HUNT RICH BACKER

On official was asked if efforts were being made to learn whether the group had influential or moneyed backers. He replied:

"That would be the logical conclusion."

In Albany, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman said he would order an immediate investigation of any connection between the Christian Front and the personnel of the National Guard.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D.) of Brooklyn said he was one of the Congressmen marked for assassination and declared that as ranking member of the House Judiciary Committee he would recommend legislation to increase the penalty for sedition.

DR. F. M. EDWARDS' DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

Benefits Nation of Sufferers!

COLUMBUS, OHIO: For over 20 years Dr. F. M. Edwards (widely known physician) successfully treated scores of patients for constipation and the headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness which often result.

This wise Doctor knew liver bile must flow freely every day into your intestines or fatty foods can't be properly digested and you may become constipated. So he kept this in mind when he perfected his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful, yet they assure gentle, thorough bowel movements and ALSO help stimulate bile flow. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

HE PILOTS THE FAST-STEPPING "CENTURY"

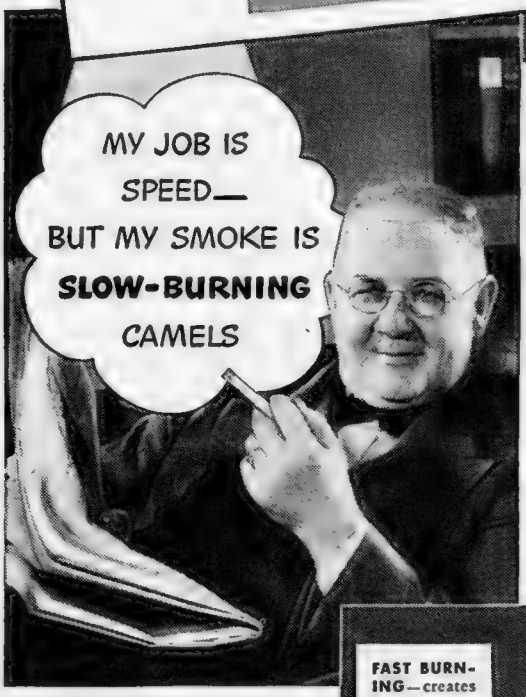
but he smokes a slow-burning cigarette for

EXTRA MILDNESS

EXTRA COOLNESS

EXTRA FLAVOR

THE CENTURY READY TO "HIGHBALL," as they say in railroading! Engineer Walter L. Bronson (above) swings up into the cab of Number 5449, one of the big Hudson type locomotives which flash at 80 miles an hour across the landscape between New York and Chicago in a day-in, day-out epic of modern railroad speed.



TAKING IT EASY, Engineer Bronson says: "No speed for me in my cigarette. That slower-burning feature makes sense to me. I've been a Camel smoker for years. I know Camels are milder and always taste swell. And—on the side—I don't object a bit to getting those extra smokes per pack."

HERE'S EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, AND EXTRA FLAVOR, and here's why: Camels are slower-burning. They have thoroughbred quality through and through. Finer, more expensive tobaccos are used, in the first place. And these choice quality tobaccos are combined into a matchless blend. Next time you smoke a Camel, notice how slowly it burns. For that is your clue to true cigarette enjoyment—the "extras" of mildness, coolness, flavor—and—extra smoking in every cigarette. Camels burned 25% slower than any other cigarette in recent tests (full details below, right). You'll always rejoice over the day you switched to Camels!

SMOKERS:

SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See below.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

FAST BURNING—creates hot flat taste in smoke... ruins delicate flavor, aroma...
SLOW BURNING—protects natural qualities that mean mildness, thrilling taste, fragrance...a cooler smoke...

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

People Flee Borders In Holland, Belgium

Phase E—likely only in event of an actual outbreak of hostilities.

Belgian officials would not disclose the number of men under arms, but under Phase D Belgium considers herself on practically a war footing. As though to clear the grounds for any eventuality, an exodus of civilians from border provinces was started.

Phases A, B and C of Belgium's mobilization program were effected last September after Great Britain and France went to war with Germany.

Military observers estimated Belgium's week-end defense moves brought her strength in men under arms to about 600,000 while the Netherlands' cancellation of periodic leaves for her army, navy and air force, officials said, will fill out her fighting fore to 400,000 within two days. It was estimated 50,000 had been on leave.

Dutch Scare 'Made In Paris,' Say Nazis

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Jan. 15 (INS)—Nazi Germany today denied responsibility for the week-end wave of alarmist rumors in Europe, ascribing them to Franco-British warmongering, but again warned Belgium and Holland to safeguard their neutrality at all costs.

The Reich is "alert and watchful," a spokesman declared, and is fully alive to the fact that Britain and France are carrying on a "dangerous flirtation" with the low countries.

In particular, Germany is watching for any sign of Belgo-Dutch "connivance" with the allies — a contingency which Berlin frequently has warned Belgium and Holland to avoid.

Britain Cancels All Army Leaves

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—A sudden order ending all leaves for British soldiers at the front increased concern today over the bracing of Belgium and the Netherlands against any German threat to the Lowlands' neutrality.

In Paris, a semi-official statement said "everything allows us to fear" a maneuver of "diplomatic-military intimidation directed against the western neutrals."

The British war office did not amplify its two-line midnight communique saying "the leave from service of the British expeditionary force has been temporarily suspended." Official sources explained, however, troops already on furlough would not be recalled immediately.

One informed observer said Britain took the view a German invasion on the low countries was not imminent, but that "potential danger" existed.

Some military strategists were inclined to interpret the reported shifting of German attack units along neutral borders as another stroke in a "war of nerves."

The Daily Express observed:

"Hitler's object is to keep us guessing, and guesswork is only playing his game."

Commenting on preparations of neutrals, the Daily Mail said:

"One suggestion is that these Neutral countries in the unhappy increased precautions are due to friendly, unofficial warnings from Italy of a coming German attack. situation of being Germany's neighbors do not lack warnings."

It was suggested in unofficial quarters that Great Britain's suspension of army leaves might be of "strategic sympathy" with Belgium and the Netherlands.

It was not known whether the order affected the leaves of the Royal Air Force, which has just completed a week of unusual activity in chasing enemy planes from the east coast and reaching far over Germany in its own survey flights.

Fingerprints Nip Nazi Spy Suspect

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (INS) — The White House today gave additional credence to unconfirmed reports that a member of the crew of the scuttled German liner Columbus has been detained by G-men as a spy suspect.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early hinted that the suspect had been apprehended through finger printing.

More British Air Trips Over Germany

LONDON, Jan. 15 (INS)—More British war plane flights over the Reich were reported today by the London Evening News.

The paper said units of the Royal Air Force flew over Northwestern Germany on reconnaissance flights during the night. The British Air Ministry, however, did not comment on the report.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Red Threats Alarm Norway and Sweden

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 15 (AP)—Official quarters in Norway and Sweden today took a serious view of relations with Russia after a Soviet air raid on Sweden's Kallaks Island and Russia's publication of a diplomatic exchange with the two nations.

Russia accused Sweden and Norway of unneutrality by aiding Finland and declared Swedish and Norwegian replies to her protest were not entirely satisfactory.

The Swedish press said publication of the exchange was not only a violation of international custom, but was strikingly similar to Soviet dealings with Finland immediately prior to the Soviet invasion.

Sweden declared all aid to the Finns had been or is entirely private nature and that Swedish sympathy for their embattled neighbors was natural.

The Swedish foreign office said a protest "naturally" would be made to Russia against the raid on Kallaks Island but would not say whether such action had been taken yet, as some sources reported.

In Oslo, Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht issued a statement emphasizing Norway's neutrality, saying that the Norwegian reply "must be fully satisfactory to the Soviet government.

Norwegian sympathy for the Finns is natural, he said, and based on opposition to any "violent policy."

WAR BRIEFS

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 15 (AP)—Two soldiers were killed and four injured today in an explosion during army exercises in Groningen province, the government press service announced. No other details were given.

HONGKONG, Jan. 15 (AP)—Agents for the Soviet Russian steamer Selenga, brought into the crown colony port by the British for contraband examination, cabled Moscow today urging that a protest be sent to London demanding immediate release.

MOSCOW, Jan. 15 (INS)—Hungarian Minister Kristoffi denied to Soviet officials today that the recent conversations between Foreign Ministers Count Stephen Csaky of Hungary and Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy were directed against the U. S. S. R.

BRITAIN SPURNS SAFE ZONE

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—British sources stated today Great Britain had replied to the protest of 21 American republics against violation of their neutrality "safety zone" by taking the position that the zone was unenforceable under international law.

The British reply was in the form of a note transmitted to the Panama government for presentation to the permanent Pan American neutrality committee. It was said its contents were withheld.

Ex-Marine Fined $50 For Selling Gun

Found guilty of selling a revolver to a youth later arrested on a breaking and entering charge, Philip Connell, 24, of Pine st., Hyde Park, was fined $50 in West Roxbury court today.

Judge Daniel W. Casey incidentally gave Connell a severe lecture for the sale. Connell is a former member of the U. S. Marine Corps, according to police. The youth to whom he is alleged to sold the gun is Walter H. Sulgda, 17, of Cleveland st., Hyde Park.

Deaths Doubled By Blackouts

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Lack out air raid precautions in Britain have almost doubled the number of traffic fatalities ministry of transport figures indicated today.

During the last four months of 1939 the total of persons killed was 4133, compared with 2494 during the like period in 1938.

Last December 1155 persons were killed in road accidents, compared with 683 in December, 1938. More than half of these killed in December were involved in accidents during blackouts.

The ministry said 8270 persons were killed in traffic accidents in 1939 as compared with 6010 in 1938.

Yonai Picks New Jap Cabinet

TOKYO, Jan. 15 (AP) Japan's new moderate premier, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, completed a cabinet today which it was said would continue Japan's present diplomatic policy toward the United States.

Admiral Yonai, a former Japanese fleet commander and former naval minister, chose as his foreign minister the veteran diplomat Hachiro Arita, who will succeed Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura.

Shunroku Hata and Vice-Admiral Zengo Yoshida, who were war and navy ministers, respectively, in the outgoing cabinet of Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, were retained in their old posts by the new premier.

Hore-Belisha Ready to Talk

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The authoritative Press Association said today Leslie Hore-Belisha definitely would make "a personal statement" in the House of Commons tomorrow on his departure as war secretary from the cabinet.

It added that Prime Minister Chamberlain "then will reply, giving the reasons for the cabinet changes" which were announced Jan. 5, causing repercussions throughout the nation.

The Press Association's account added cryptically that "no reference is likely to be made to the mysterious four-page letter which Hore Belisha is reported to have received from Chamberlain."

MRS. DOWD'S OWN STORY

women in a swap which let them keep their jobs? (God save the mark.)

Were prominent guests of the county housegow who are reputedly well-to-do entertained in the sheriff's house when they should have been under lock and key in the jail?

Is John F. Dowd planning to give himself up? (Answer—Yes. More on this later.)

Are there certain potent and respectable citizens of Greater Boston who are interested in having John F. Dowd remain at arm's length at least away from the pursuing beagles of the law?

Is there any segment of our great population grateful to John F Dowd? Do any of the fair-weather friends or the thousands of persons he helped in 10 years of public life offer just a bit of well-wishing for the man who was their benefactor?

We shall take up some of these questions and let Mary Dowd answer them.

First, a word about her. Mary Dowd is tall, attractive, has black hair and dark brown eyes. She has a nice figure of the type described as statuesque. She is intelligent and transparently—we would say honest. She is the daughter of sturdy Irish-American stock; a good girl in a thoroughly respectable family and the family roots spread out all over the little section in Dorchester where Mary and her mother were born.

Her mother, Mrs. John J. O'Connell, was with us during most of the interview. It took place in the second floor apartment of a two-story house in Brookvale st.

LARGE PROPERTY OWNER

It used to be Brooks street, and an alleyway distant is the site of Mary Dowd's birth, and in the house which stood on that site, her mother, (Mary L. Lyons she was before her marriage), was born 60 years ago. Another generation had preceded Mary and her mother in that same section of Dorchester, and Grandmother Lyons (who was a McGovern of Quincy) had lived their a dozen-odd years before Mrs. Dowd's mother, as the first of 12 children came along.

Grandfather Lyons had owned a considerable bit of property in that neighborhood, and had owned the land where sprouted the whole row of houses in which stands the O'Connell home. Mary Dowd can remember when she was a little girl that a parkway (before the rapid transit) had bounded the land her grandfather owned.

Now for the questions, but with this preface in the exact words of Mary Dowd:

"I am dreadfully upset. I can't sleep, but I have this consolation. I am home with my family. They are so wonderful.

"But why do the papers keep bothering my family—my uncle especially. They don't know anything about John, or where he is or where he went. I am sorry for my family. But I have laid my troubles at God's feet, and have asked Him to direct me."

What of the "mystery woman" reported to have paid $3000 in life insurance premiums?

"There was no such woman," Mar. Dowd said simply. "I paid some of the premiums. As many as I could afford. I won't be able to keep up the insurance now."

THINGS DIFFERENT "NOW"

Before going on to another question, I should like to give you a few "quotes" from Mary Dowd on the subject of the police, neighbors, unknown letter writers, and the friends she and John Dowd knew and enjoyed.

"Everyone has been wonderful to me," she said. "We have the grandest neighbors. There are three policemen, who live in this block. It seems so strange. We have always been friendly with the officers—with the law. "When Johnnie was in the Council, and though all the days when I helped him when he was busy, we were always so friendly with the policemen. All the favors we've asked from captains and others for so many poor people."

"Now it's so different. The four detectives on the case have been very nice, but it's so different now.

WERE PALS TOGETHER

"You know, when this trouble happened I had no one to turn to. It seemed I didn't know anyone who worked for the newspapers. It seems that we had just lived in our own circle. In the eleven years Johnnie and I were married I don't think I was ever alone three nights in the whole 11 years.

"We would leave the house together, invariably at night. If he was going to a wake or to see someone on business or to talk with some constituent about something he thought I'd have no interest in, he'd tell me to go to a movie or go visiting and then he'd pick me up two or three hours later.

"We were together continually. That's why the nights are so hard now."

"The girl won't sleep," Mrs. O'Connell broke in. "She sits out here in the living-room alone all night."

Mrs. Dowd went on:

"If I could regain my sense of humor I guess I'd see something funny in the stories they made up about Johnnie and other women.

(I guess that answers the question of the rumored "other woman.")

"I had to shut off the 'phone. That's because I can't control the other end of the conversation, nor have any knowledge of what might be made of the talk some of our friends might have with me. I have had nothing to say to anyone."

Exactly twice in the Dowd tenancy of the sheriff's house of Charles Street Jail, social affairs of sufficient proportion to qualify as "parties" were given by the sheriff and his wife.

Mrs. Dowd is sure that if there had been more, she would have remembered. One of these events was in celebration of March 17 . . . Probably a dozen guests, friends of the Dowds for many years, attended.

Dinner was served, and John and his male friends drank in moderation.

(Another revealing installment of George Holland's exclusive interview with Mrs. John F. Dowd will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

Find Photographer Ended Own Life

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 15—The death of James Lee Moss, 20, of Cape Elizabeth, talented photographer who was found in his dark room with a bullet wound in his head, was pronounced a suicide today by Dr. Wilbur F. Leighton, medical examiner.

The shooting occurred a few hours after the youth's auto was in an accident and police said the suicide probably resulted from despondency over the crash, although no one was hurt.

Wayland Mother In Anti-War Drive

Predicting that America has learned enough not to send her sons to fight abroad, a Wayland mother appealed today that the cause of war may be removed completely so that there will no longer be danger of battle even within the borders of this continent.

She is Mrs. Ida Anderson of Glenson rd., Wayland, who offered the plea that Washington officials remove the cause of war—a "course which can be accomplished within the twinkling of an eye."

"I am a hard working mother," she wrote in sending in her pledge card as a member of the National Legion of Mothers. "I am working for a small weekly salary to help my children through school. I am willing to do anything for the sake of peace, and I think this National Legion of Mothers of America is a wonderful crusade."

At the same time, an anxious Everett mother of nine children, Mrs. Clarice Anderson of Bailey st., Everett, called on the questions of one of America's most famous military leaders, Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, to portray his fears of war. She wrote:

"I am enclosing a quotation from an address by William Tecumseh Sherman before the graduating class of Michigan Military Academy in 1879, in which he said, 'I am tired and sick of war. Its glory is all moonshine. It is only those who have neither fired a shot nor heard the shrieks and groans of the wounded who cry aloud for blood, more vengeance, more desolation. War is hell!'

"It is so fitting and so true. I wish more people could read it. I have six boys and three girls. Three of my boys are of service age. One of them has been in the army 15 months and is now in Panama. I won't see him for two years, and that is a long way from home to be gone so long. And he is not yet 22. But at least he is not fighting a war and killing some other mother's son. God forbid that! War surely is hell."

Capt. Atwood, Hero Fisherman, Dead

Capt. John M. Atwood, 64, who led 15 of his crew to safety when his fishing schooner, Ingomar, foundered off Plum Island four years ago, is dead at his home in Marie ave., Everett.

A veteran of the fishing fleets that sail out of Boston and Gloucester, Capt. Atwood was well known in marine circles for more than 40 years. Up until the time of his death he captained the Dawn out of Gloucester.

Eve Arden Tops Gayety Stars

"Twinkletoes," burlesque revue coming to the Gayety Theater today has the versatile dancer, Eve Arden, for its leading lady.

Eve Arden

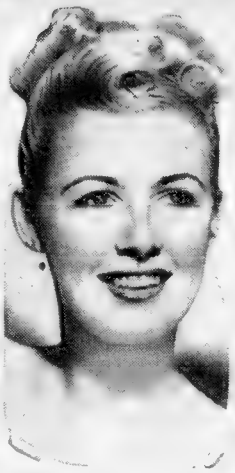
She will introduce an entirely new dance routine. Other feminine shows scintillating in the week's stage show are the Morgan Sisters, Ann Howe and Dorothy Hart. The comics are Steve Mills, Walter Brown, Schultz, the Dutcher, Tanglefoot, Al Golden, Jack Lyons and Eddie Brewer. The Eight Fifth Avenue Models and the Twenty Dancing Gayety Dolls and a flock of vaudeville specialties round out an entertaining bill.

Two screen features are a part of each show.

Ticket Sale Opens For Hayes Play

The Colonial Theater box office was re-opened today for the seat sale for "Ladies and Gentlemen," the comedy which brings Helen Hayes and Philip Merivale to Boston for a fortnight beginning next Monday.

The comedy is the work of Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht, and only recently completed a run at the Martin Beck Theater, New York.



MARY LANE is the ringleader of "Funz-A-Poppin'," new show at the Old Howard.

Finland's Plight On So. Station Screen

Now unreeling on the South Station Theater screen in a timely newsreel filmed on the occasion of Finland's twentieth birthday and predicting even that far back her present unhappy situation. It should be particularly interesting to contributors to the Boston American Finnish Relief Fund and to all those concerned at the plight of this brave little country.

'Funz-A-Poppin' For Howard Fans

Mary Lane, streamlined song-and-dance favorite of burlesque, is the ringleader of "Funz-A-Poppin," the Old Howard's current stage revue. She has just completed a successful engagement in Chicago.

Another starring act on the bill is Roxanne, whose singing and dancing are too wellknown to require description. Leading the comedy delegation are Bozo Snyder, "the man who never speaks," and Leonard in "Nick the Greek." Kramer, in a new characterization, Harry Reed is an able second.

Diana King and Joy St. Clair are decorative additions to a large cast and Reggie Duvan, acrobatic and tap dancer, and Les Golden, who does tricks for the production numbers, are also on the bill.

ELMER RICE LIKES CRITICS--HIS SHOW AT WILBUR TONIGHT

Enthusiastic About Scenes

By PEGGY DOYLE

Add to things you didn't know 'til now: Playwright Elmer Rice likes critics.

The fact that his son, Robert, has been critic-ing for the New York Morning Telegraph for the past year or so, has nothing to do, he says, with this decidedly friendly feeling.

"I've always liked 'em," he said, smiling fondly upon a flock of local members of the tribe gathered in his Ritz-Carlton suite late yesterday. Just like that, Mr. Rice erased those critic-baiting years from the record and there was mutual satisfaction.

About his new play, "Two On An Island," opening tonight at the Wilbur Theater, it had a most successful preview in New Haven this past week.

"But everything opens well in New Haven," he says. "It's how it goes the second night on Broadway that really tells the story."

He is most enthusiastic about the stage sets Jo Mielziner has designed for the 11-scene play of New York life—"the most stimulating stage sets in many Broadway seasons."

Mielziner, who has recently been working along brand new scenic lines, has been given a completely free rein by Author-Director Rice in embodying his new ideas, and the result is said to be a riot of imaginatively employed color and form, matching the varying moods of the play's action and also the various aspects of Manhattan Island.

A revolving stage will be used, so that no wait between scenes will last more than a few seconds.

Betty Field, who is one of the "Two" Frank Craven's son, John, is the other, also met the press yesterday. She is a Boston girl, a very pretty one, and is a sort of advance guard for the forthcoming film production, "Of Mice and Men," in which she appears. John Steinbeck, the author, supervised the script, she told us, declaring that it is a beautifully made production.

"I didn't like the play but I do like the screen version, which does not follow the play but does follow the book faithfully. Naturally, all the swearing is out but you'll never miss it. It really isn't important to the characterizations."

Before Mr. Rice and Miss Field departed for last night's rehearsal, the playwright, who successfully produced his two plays, "Councillor At Law" and "Left Bank," was asked about the Playwrights' Company $1 theater plan.

"We have proved it is feasible, he said, "We tested the idea with 'Abe Lincoln in Illinois,' moving the play to a larger theater after a successful run. You have got to have capacity or it won't work. We gambled $15,000 on the 'Lincoln' experiment and we won. We have proved it can be done, but, of course, this shouldn't be attempted with a new play—only with proven hits."

About the Playwrights Company itself, Mr. Rice is as warmly enthusiastic as ever and he expressed a hope that in time — not immediately — they would have their own theater, a modern theater such as Broadway does not now boast.

"We have been able to achieve a craftsman's theater. For so long the theater has been up against the conflict of an author trying to get a play on stage and the producer trying to make his investment pay. By pooling our experience we believe we have been able to put on finer productions at less cost than ever could have been realized under our previous arrangements with commercial producers."

HELEN HAYES and Roy Roberts in a scene from "Ladies and Gentlemen," coming to the Colonial stage on January 22 for two weeks.

Modern Glamour Girls -:- By George Clarke

". . . So they come, the Glamour Girls—like a parade!"

ELEANOR knows how to sing . . . and Elizabeth is a jitterbug . . . while Cynthia is pale, and blond, and can ride a horse like "Liz" Whitney.

Rosemary has a regal coronet around her head . . . and Jooney has a wardrobe which is the envy and delight of all the others . . . while Priscilla has sparkling black eyes and a piquant air.

Joan raises dogs . . . Patricia is the darling of the stag line, but Beverly is blond and tall, and some gentlemen still prefer 'em.

All of which is by way of stressing the difficulty any arbiter of such matters would have should he, or she, assume the task of designating any one of Boston's 117 First Ladies debutantes as Glamour Girl of the Year.

Maybe it ought to be Eleanor Chase Frothingham, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr. (This Beacon Hill-Brookline family, for she, after all, was runner-up to post-deb Lucy Cochrane at the Magnolia Casino last summer.

JOAN CURTIS
Photog's Delight

But, on the other hand, Joan Curtis has been rated No. 1 for the coming Gardenia Ball, and Cynthia Burrage has already been chosen by some as the year's ranking beauty, and . . .

It's all very perplexing . . . and the Messrs. Harry and Jack Marshard, Ruby Newmar, Sammy Eisen, Al Zimmerman, yes, and Lew Bonnick and Johnny Cole, too—aren't of much assistance in the matter. If anyone ever wants to hear a good, old-fashioned hem and haw, let him ask an orchestra leader to pick Boston's Glamour Girl No. 1.

It's really very engaging! First off, comes a look of gentle bewilderment, accompanied by a gentle scratch of the back of the right ear with the tip of a baton—and that's a good trick, all by itself. Then, after a preliminary hem and a perfunctory haw, comes the neatest straddle of the day.

And it's not because any one of the gentlemen above listed is afraid to name his choice for number one—it's simply that every one of Boston's 117 debutantes—first edition, mind you—is lovely, beautiful, charming, etc., to a most confusing degree.

Here are, and this is no exaggeration, the loveliest young girls in the whole United States, bar none . . . and any Bostonian who wouldn't fight to prove it is a cad, sir . . . yes, sir, a bounder, sir . . . and a no-gooder, besides!

But in the inquiry into the situation one emerges who may be, after all, Boston's Chic Parisian.

Those of you who read Friday's issue in this series recall that she is the house photographer of New York's Stork Club who, as such, so directs the flow of debs and pictures that he is very instrumental in picking New York's No. 1 Glamour Girl. So it was with Gloria Baker, Jean Frolda Frazier and, this year, Mary Steele.

BOSTON'S streamlined Ward McAllister is, probably, one Mr. Robert Kretschmar, the gent with the camera and the waxed mustachios, who can be found generally, at the Balinese Room in the winter season, the Magnolia Casino in the summer . . . and who is photographer by appointment to these places, as well as publicity director for them and for the Marshards, Jack and Harry.

Inquiry develops that Mr. Kretschmar, who is generally as inscrutable as a sphinx, started this glamour girl business at the Casino in Magnolia some years ago—just about a year before Boston's suburb to the south, New York, awoke to the possibilities of the situation.

At that time he was instrumental in having lovely, blond Barbara Brewer chosen as No. 1 of the North Shore. She is now Mrs. Charles R. L. Sturgis.

But Mr. Kretschmar is far too smart to stick out his neck with a personal designation—oh, no!—Mr. Kretschmar gets the girls to vote among themselves, and only supervises the election, thus saving embarrassment at the hands of indignant mammas.

Apparently, New York has taken another leaf from the Kretschmar manual, and, this year, did it the same way way, electing Mary Steele.

With the assistance of the above-mentioned stick-wavers, and of Mr. Kretschmar, here is a quick run over of some of the more prominent of Boston's loveliest—and if anyone is not included in the tabulation, let her not be wrought, for space is limited and time is fleeting.

Rosemary Merrill, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Keith Merrill is a belle not only in Boston but also in Washington where her father is high up in the diplomatic service. She braids her long black hair and wears it in a coronet around her head.

Elizabeth Jenney, of the Jenney gasoline family, is a modern type of glamour gal. She's a jitterbug and extremely popular. Half of the stag line cuts in on her to dance the latest swing steps at even the most dignified deb parties.

Mimi Blake, who is handicapped by the fact that her older sisters were singing and dancing stars of many Vincent

JOAN GRIESS

Club shows, but she has plenty of talent and personality and will undoubtedly live up to the family tradition.

CYNTHIA BURRAGE, whose blond peaches and cream complexion and her feminine charm belie her ability as a horse-woman and polo-ist. In addition to this she is an interesting conversationalist, a rare accomplishment in a young girl these days.

Eleanor "Sissie" Frothingham,

CYNTHIA BURRAGE AND ELEANOR FROTHINGHAM

most widely publicised of this year's Boston debs. She is most sophisticated for a girl her age, but this is not surprising when you know that she took lessons in michrophone technique, and dancing and was often in society fashion shows when she was a sub-deb two years before she actually came out.

Joan Curtis, society photographers' delight, a charming and ready smile and a large wardrobe of glamorous clothes.

Priscilla Crocker, piquant, peppy, black-haired with sparkling dark eyes.

Anne Grant, niece of President Roosevelt's mother.

Joan Griess, raises thoroughbred dogs as a hobby, but after sunset is alluring and wears exotic evening gowns.

Patricia Bayne, petite, chestnut-haired, vivacious darling of the stag line.

Beverly Pratt, tall willowy blonde, and gentlemen still prefer 'em.

Anne Eliot, has large appealing eyes and soft brown hair, and has inherited her father's interest in automobiles both old-fashioned and streamlined. Mr. Eliot is the one with the collection of antique cars and has invented an ultra modern streamlined car.

Phyllis Hughes, small and cute with curly brown hair.

These are but a few. Others might include Ann Tarbell, Ellen Shalit—dozens of them — but there is a limit.

Which of them will turn into a real glamour girl, an outstanding woman of great accomplishment, of great romance, or of great sorrow, only time can tell . . . and, perhaps, half a dozen years from now, some other may write a similar series . . . and one of these may be the subject.

But, let all women remember always—

Every woman is glamourous. Every woman is beautiful. Every woman has charm.

If she will only develope her natural gifts.

THE END.

PRIME MINISTER CHAMBERLAIN'S speech at the Lord Mayor's Mansion in London, concerning the need for food rationing in Great Britain contained a preliminary feeler for greater American participation in Europe's present war.

Referring to anti-Nazi sentiment in the New World, the aged Prime Minister declared:

"In his recent message to the Pope, the President of the United States declared that only by friendly association by the seekers of light and the seekers of peace everywhere could the forces of evil be overcome.

"I profoundly agree, but I would add that if the forces of right are to prevail, WE MUST NOT HESITATE TO RISK OUR BLOOD AND OUR TREASURE FOR SO GREAT AN END."

Thus is history repeating itself.

As in the years preceding our entrance into the Great War on April 6, 1917, the Allies, finding themselves up against a formidable foe, are again making it their major strategy to get the United States to intervene on their side.

Mr. Chamberlain, recognizing the present seriousness of the threat to Britain's independence, thus makes a tentative bid for American soldiers and American money.

In the last war Britain escaped the handicap of her insular position and dependence on imports for civilian and soldier sustenance as a result of the willingness of the United States to furnish supplies on credit.

This time the inhibitions of the Johnson Act, forbidding loans to nations in default on war debt, and the "Cash and Carry" provision of the Neutrality Act set more austere standards for Britain as a belligerent.

BRITAIN'S THREAT comes not so much from enemies without as from the adverse consequences on her home economy of nearly a century of Free Trade ideas, which tended to destroy home agriculture.

Dependent on imports for up to two-thirds of her foodstuffs, Britain not only is vitally dependent on sea power, but must employ part of her limited civilian manpower to produce exportable goods to exchange for imports of food and other vital raw materials.

Thus the ancient repeal of the Corn Laws left England vulnerable in time of war.

The British MacMillan Commission focused attention on these realities in 1931, and as a consequence Britain wisely turned to tariffs.

Underlying Mr. Chamberlain's stressing of the need for pulling in civilian belts are the same basic factors of lack of self sufficiency.

If, as the war goes on, Britain's enemies should begin to take advantage of these conditions, it seems inevitable that the cry will become stronger for American assistance.

Irrespective of where the sympathies of individual Americans may lie, it is becoming increasingly apparent that American neutrality may be in growing jeopardy.

They're gunning for Uncle Sap again.

Lest we be taken in by foreign propaganda, it is time for us to face the realities, and to formulate our own policies with determination in the interests of American progress.

In the critical days ahead, it is important that we know at all times precisely where we are going.

POLLUTED WATERS may spread the germs of infantile paralysis and cause epidemics of the much-feared disease.

So speculates Samuel M. Ellsworth, Boston sanitary engineer, in the current issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, thus reviving a theory which had been tentatively discarded.

"What better way would there be," he asks, "of producing a case of infantile paralysis than frequent flushing of the nasal passages with sewage-polluted water, as would be done in bathing, particularly by youngsters with a proclivity for diving and swimming under water?"

It is a proper question to be contained in a New England publication, for this is indeed a local problem.

A special recess commission of the Legislature more than a year and a half ago investigated the pollution of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay waters, into which approximately 250,000,000 gallons of raw sewage are discharged every day, and suggested the building of modern treatment plants.

But little has been done. WHY?

Surely it will take more than blue-prints and talk to kill the deadly microbes that very probably pass, unseen and unsuspected, from unsanitary water into human bodies.

Human Side of News -:- By EDWIN C. HILL

UNCLE SAM, owner of many odd properties, takes advantage of winter to round up his reindeer herd in Alaska. The extraordinary feature of this greatest of round-ups is it will be conducted largely by radio and airplane.

It will cover 168,000 square miles and at least one million reindeer, probably many more, will be tagged with the letters U. S. and ear-notched.

There'll be really fifty round-ups and that's where radio and planes come in, to co-ordinate them. All the work will be done by moonlight. Eskimos traveling with dog sleds will round up the reindeer in the corrals.

STRANGE DOINGS under glittering, shifting northern lights. The great enemie of Uncle Sam's reindeer herd, which has grown by the way from a few animals brought over from Finland, are the wolves.

When a little Finn named Andrew Bahr brought 3000 reindeer from the Katzebue country to the McKenzie delta, an epic drive which took more than five years, wolves, constantly following the slow-moving herd, destroyed hundreds. Andrew Bahr himself told me the story of that Homeric adventure of which this is only a fragment.

"Yes," said old Andrew, "it's been a good five years and then some, mister. Fawns were born each spring and those which lived had more fawns, so much of the reindeer we finally delivered we not those we started out with "A lot did go to the wolves. Many ran off with the wild caribou and once in a blizzard a big bunch got stranded on a huge cake of ice which broke off and carried them out into the Arctic Sea, to be drowned.

"One winter," old Andrew went on, "the wolves closed in on us. They would wait until the blizzard was on before making attack, in bunches of four to 12 mostly. They took from 150 to 200 animals that winter."

THERE SHOULD rise another Homer to write the Iliad of Andrew Bahr's great reindeer drive. He went on:

"Tom Wood, one of the Eskimos, was lost for three days and we were sure he was going to die. The temperature was 70 degrees below zero. When he could go no farther he fell down in the snow and began to pray.

"That's what he did, and in the long distance off he thought he saw a person in the storm. His nose, chin, cheeks, and wrists were frozen and he couldn't walk, but he stumbled on toward the person and there it was—a woman, and a white woman.

"She was standing in front of an igloo. She turned out to be a trapper's wife who had just gone outside for a minute to study the storm, and that's why Tom feels so sure that God answered him."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—The Democratic Digest, published once a month by the Women's Division of the National Democratic Committee, is undertaking a very interesting demonstration of how one can actually go about knowing one's own community.

Mrs. Dorothy McAllister and Mrs. May Evans decided that public health was a good study point in any city or rural district. They invited a small group of women to join them yesterday in the District of Columbia Health Commissioner's office. Dr. Ruhland was away, but his deputy received the group.

WE WERE told first about the things which the Department was doing that were considered important to public health. The Department can show real results for one campaign which it has carried on and which is tied up with the desire to restrict the spread of contagious diseases.

They are inspecting glassware and silverware in all the restaurants and soda fountains in the city. At first the number of germs found on glasses was extremely high, but they have brought it down so that many restaurants run below a hundred, where they once were up in the thousands.

In Washington the most serious menaces seem to be tuberculosis and pneumonia. Deaths from tuberculosis are, of course, far higher among the colored citizens.

In the course of the conversation, it was brought out that, in areas where poor housing exists, disease rates go up in proportion to the low economic status of the families. All clinics are overcrowded and the number of public health nurses in the District is just about half of what is considered safe for a city of this size.

We went through the laboratory where experiments are being made with pneumonia serums which have appreciably cut down the number of deaths from pneumonia.

I felt that I had acquired a great deal of knowledge on this first trip. It is planned to continue these trips, looking into a different phase of District of Columbia government and publishing an account of findings in the "Digest."

It is hoped that this will be helpful to women in other cities, or rural areas, who wish to study their own problems.

THIS WEEK in New York City has been designated as "Kindergarten Week" by the kindergartners of the city, in order to try to awaken public interest to the importance of retaining kindergartens as part of the public education system.

I wish this could be done all over the country, for kindergartens and nursery schools should be available to all our children. At an early age they acquire fundamental habits which will help them all through their later years.

Last week the Congressional Reception took place. During dinner I particularly enjoyed having the President and the Vice-President vie with each other telling stories of their past political experiences.

WHALEN WILL STAY WITH FAIR

NEW York, Jan. 15—At last week's meeting of the World's Fair directors Harvey D. Gibson was prepared to offer resolutions terminating Grover Whalen's association with the Fair . . . Mayor LaGuardia interceded and so the resolutions were withdrawn . . . Whalen probably will make the trip to South America in place of LaGuardia to get those countries to exhibit at the Fair.

MRS. BYRON FOY received from her husband a bracelet in which was set a huge Briolet-cut diamond shaped like a teardrop . . . After the reception at their Long Island home Mrs. Foy noticed that the diamond was gone and started a search . . . "Wait a minute. I think I know where it is," said Harry Evans, their house guest . . . He went upstairs and brought the gem. "I found it and put it on the library table," he explained. "I thought it was something off the chandelier."

MRS. ANTHONY BROWN, wife of the director, is painting a series of famous hands. Al Smith watched while she sketched his right hand . . . "Hey, never mind the polish on the nail!" he cautioned, pointing to his elegant star sapphire, "Get the polish on the cat's-eye."

They may go and come when they please, but must sign a register when they retire—and last one in must lock the door . . . The first infraction brings a warning—the second infraction, out.

GENE FOWLER was visited by an assistant director who complained concerning a temperamental child actor . . . "The little brat!" the director screamed. "I've done all I can to handle him. Now the only thing left is to try kindness."

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Distributed by International News Service

OUR READERS may recall that some months ago we suggested here the building on the grounds of the New York World's Fair of a stadium to seat 100,000 spectators, in which might be presented, among other attractions, a series of pan-American games to take the place of the Olympic games of 1940, which are sure to be postponed or cancelled by Finland.

Well, after due consideration, we have decided to expand our idea. We think the stadium should seat not less than 250,000 spectators. There are so many stadiums in the United States that seat 100,000 that we want the biggest of all for the biggest city.

The fact that our 250,000 stadium will never be built, nor the 100,000 one, either, or even one seating 50,000 does not bother us in the least.

WE JUST LOVE to sit back and suggest big things for New York, like this stadium, and getting the Republican convention, and running Mayor La Guardia for Vice-President, etc., etc.

It is no work at all for us and gives the impression that we are public spirited. If anybody ever came around and said to us, suppose you start that thing off with a subscription or get out and hustle around on it, they would find out how public spirited we are. We enjoy thinking up things, but not doing anything more than that about them.

You would be amazed how many stadiums we have built, in our mind, in New York City in the past 15 years.

ONCE we bustled around like a good fellow with George Preston Marshall, the Washington football magnate, building in our mind and also his, a stadium to seat 70,000 spectators for football, hockey, prize fights, and other matters of that nature.

It was to [illegible] an all-weather stadium with a roof you could roll [illegible] in nice weather. It seemed that George Preston Marshall was one of the owners of a copyright or a patent or some legal process on the idea. Probably he still is.

We first had that stadium built in our mind over the railroad tracks abaft the Pennsylvania station, but changed the location to the general vicinity of 110th street and Fifth avenue. In those days if George Preston Marshall had ever fallen in the river he would have been carried to the bottom by the weight of the architect's plans that he always lugged around with him.

OF COURSE you will not find our stadium in either of the locations mentioned, or anywhere else, unless George Preston Marshall has built one somewhere in secret, and not tipped us off.

We built in our mind another stadium of a different type at Columbus circle from Eighth ave. back to Ninth, and still another in Rockefeller Center.

George Holland's daily column, Boston After Dark, is necessarily omitted today as Mr. Holland was busy obtaining the exclusive story that appears on Page 3.

TAYLOR TO CO-STAR WITH VIVIEN

By Louella O. Parsons

Robert Taylor

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15 I couldn't have had happier news for my first day back at the old desk than word that Robert Taylor gets a swell break at last—the role opposite Vivien Leigh in "Waterloo Bridge." Don't let Hollywood make the mistake of thinking that the fans have lost interest in Bob because he slipped off last year's list of the "First Ten" at the box office. Everywhere I went there were many queries about Bob, how he was coming along in his quest for better roles, and when he would get one worthy [illegible]

All he needs is one outstanding picture to be right back at the top again and I believe Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is really doing right by him in this role opposite Vivien. Since "Gone With the Wind" she is the most discussed actress in pictures. Bob's role as the English soldier hero covers a 25-year span—from a boy of 22 to a man 47 years old.

GRACIE ALLEN

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Bette Davis' favorite escort continues to be Robert Faulk, the dialogue director; Elsa Maxwell is planning all the surprises for the annual Warner studio party at the Biltmore Bowl on Feb. 17. The famous screen "blowups," always a feature of these parties, will include one of Boss Jack Warner caught unexpectedly by a camera while giving a speech; Mary Cassidy with Frank Morgan's son, George, at the Grace Hayes lodge; the football professional, Larry Craig, of the Green Bay packers, is being tested by Republic for a contract as a Western star.

JEANETTE MacDONALD leaving the studio every day at four o'clock so she can have dinner with Gene Raymond at the hospital; Gracie Allen and George Burns worried about their little daughter, Sandra, who has a "strep" throat; Gregory La Cava tossed a party for the cast and crew of "Primrose Path." It was also a farewell to Ginger Rogers who is heading for a Sun Valley vacation. Paulette Goddard will play opposite John Garfield in his film "Hazard's Express" in spite of the rumors that Ann Sothern had it. Ann's movie jobs will keep her on the coast.

MARLENE DIETRICH has obtained permission from "U" for a New York trip before she starts "Seven Sinners"; Paulette Goddard teaching the Chaplin boys how to ice skate at the Tropical Ice Gardens; Nancy Kelly, back from New York, says she and Edmund O'Brien are still good friends but there is nothing to announce in the line of wedding bells; maybe it isn't original—but there's still no place like home.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

BILL WATSON never objected to his daughter's bringing young men from the city to spend a week-end on the farm with her. Mary was a good sort, as were most of the fellows she met. But Trowbridge Pell was different. Too different, Bill decided, to endure having around the place another week-end.

Trowbridge Pell was a self-styled actor, at present "at liberty." He was delighted, he told Bill, to spend two days amid rustic scenery before taking the lead in a fall Broadway show, the name of which he neglected to state. Then he forgot Bill and played to the gallery of Mary, her kid sister and Mrs. Watson.

THE WOMEN were much impressed when Trowbridge did bits from current stage hits. They applauded flatteringly. But Bill, who had seen both Skinner and Booth in their prime, groaned under his breath.

Pell was like a wooden Indian, given the power of a stilted speech. Convinced of his own greatness, he created no illusion whatever. All he had was a fair profile.

Bill winced at the thought of Trowbridge's coming out with Mary another week-end. He shuddered at the possibility of Mary's becoming romantically interested in him. Something would have to be done.

An hour before Trowbridge was to leave for the city, Bill invited him out to the barn while he did the chores. Bill told him that the animals had names. Trowbridge, to make conversation, asked the name of each cow and horse, even as Bill Watson had hoped.

Then Bill led the pig, and the actor inquired if this gross animal also had a name.

"Sure, but I've named only part of him," Bill revealed. "This end with the tail."

"That so?" said Trowbridge, slightly interested. "What did you name it?"

"Trowbridge," said the farmer.

"BUT—but that's MY name," protested the actor, quite disturbed.

"I know it. I borrowed it from yours."

Trowbridge Pell gulped, then stiffened arrogantly. "Mister Watson," he demanded, "why in heaven's name did you name that end of the pig after ME?"

Bill grinned lazily, said, "Because it's all ham."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

TALL, dashing Captain Hans Langsdorff is dead. And it's many a year since a death has so shaken the world.

Commander of the Graf Spee, which he loved as other men love women, doomed by the sailors' code to sink with her at sea, he bowed reluctantly to Adolf Hitler's word and took her into port. Then, when his time in safety had expired, he swung the Graf Spee back to those who waited grimly for him on the evening tide. And, having taken off his crew and fired the Spee, went back to shore—and locked the door—and died.

Why? No one knows. For his own grief or Adolf Hitler's rage? No one can tell. But one thing's certain—Captain Langsdorff fell a victim to some sentimental creed, some grim tradition, poisonous with age, which made him feel that he'd betray his faith, unless he died.

MILLIONS, thinking of that death, will weep . . . and hail his bravery.

But I can't weep or hail. I can't believe such deaths are brave or right. They seem to me the lowest thing a man can do—that he wreck his precious, useful life to bolster up some savage old taboo or stupid rite.

One sees it often, such vain sacrifice. Not only on the bridge of some doomed ship but in the common conduct of our life. Love linked to Hate . . . and healthy Hope forever yoked to leprous Despair . . . because some morbid spirit made a cult of Pain and Fear.

IT'S VILE—SUCH USELESS LOSS AND AGONY! I'M SURE OUR FATHER NEVER WILLED THAT IT SHOULD BE

CLEAN DISCIPLINE of one's own will to serve a greater cause, that's good. Proud offering that makes both Giver and the Given Another for the gift, that's fine. But self-free that ends in bitterness and waste and serves no lofty purpose, that's as foul as murder, vicious sacrilege.

A man I've said—brave R. L. Stevenson—that cheerfulness, of all the virtues, was the first . . . and sacrifice was black as any vice unless it brought a kinder scheme of life . . . a gentler, happier bond from man to man. I think that's true.

The world is poorer for Hans Langsdorff's loss . . . and sicker for the twisted thought that caused that loss. One brave protest's more valiant than a thousand suicides . . . one healthy laugh hits harder than the bloodiest gun. Cowards can die—but heroes live and fight. NO SACRIFICE IS NOBLE IF IT ENDS IN WASTE.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

THE LATEST and most exclusive bit of social news will come as a disappointment to Bostonians . . . for Boston society is losing one of its most charming young matrons . . .

Next month Mrs. Waldo Brown of Milton will be married to Dr. Charles Carson Merkel, wealthy Detroit surgeon, and she is moving her family of five children out to Grosse Point, Michigan, where they will make their new home . . .

Going to Detroit to live will be just like a grand reunion and home-coming for Mrs. Brown because she was born and brought up there . . . She is the former Frances Gray, daughter of Mrs. Paul Gray of Detroit and the late Paul Gray who was called one of the country's unsung millionaires at the time of his death a few years ago . . . Her daughter, Ann, one of our prettiest post debs, already has a wide circle of friends in Detroit for during her debutante year in 1937 she was presented to Detroit society at a number of large parties, including a lavish Russian ball given by her grandmother . . . Ann's Tyrolean ball at the Hotel Somerset in October 1937 will long be remembered as one of the most elaborate and gay parties of Boston society . . .

The wedding will take place on Feb. 1 at the home of Mrs. Brown's mother in Detroit . . .

The future Mrs. Merkel is the widow of Lt. Commander Waldo Brown, well known aviator and yachtsman who was killed in a tragic plane crash at Braintree last April . . . A petite brunette with dark, sparkling eyes, she looks hardly any older than her post deb daughter, and a few years ago she was awarded the title of Boston's best dressed woman . . . In addition to her daughter, she has four sons, John and Paul who are students at Milton Academy, Waldo, and one-year-old David . . .

WE KNOW that society columns are read almost exclusively by women but we think some of the "men about town" should glance at them occasionally . . . Today one of our colleagues hails as a "scooperoo" his news of the romance and marriage of Gretchen Bremer Knowles and Ernest T. Weir, Jr., wealthy Pittsburgher . . . But OUR readers learned this news exclusively back in December when we wrote that Dan Cupid had shot his arrow at the couple and their wedding was imminent . . .

The couple was married Friday and now comes word that Gretchen's former husband, Robert Knowles, is also a victim of one of Cupid's well-aimed darts . . . His friends expect that he will soon be married to the niece of a prominent dean at Harvard . . .

Homeward Bound From Africa

IF LEILA ROOSEVELT and her husband, Armand Denis, take as long to return to this country as it took their Christmas card to reach us from Africa, they'll have to do some scurrying to get home in time for lectures they are scheduled to give in early March . . .

The Denises are noted socialite explorers and world travelers . . . She is the daughter of the Andre Roosevelts, and kin of both branches of the Presidential family . . . an attractive brunette, she is very popular here in Boston where she was widely entertained about a year ago on the occasion of the showing of her husband's travel movie "Dark Rapture" at the Y. W. C. A. . . . That picture was based on their expedition to the Belgian Congo . . . and their latest jaunt has been to British East Africa . . .

Just yesterday we received a Christmas card from them . . . mailed from Uganda on Nov. 11 . . . The trip home will take them 42 days and their friends are hoping that by this time they have been successful in making connections with a boat which will bring them across the Atlantic . . .

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Read These Important Facts!

Quivering nerves can make you old, haggard, cranky—can make your life a nightmare of jealousy, self pity and "the blues."

Often such nervousness is due to female functional disorders. So take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help calm unstrung nerves and lessen functional "irregularities." For over 60 years relieving Pinkham's Compound has helped tens of thousands of grandmothers, mothers and daughters "in time of need."

Pinkham's Compound positively contains no opiates or habit forming ingredients—it is made from nature's own wholesome roots and herbs each with its own special work to perform. One of the most effective "woman's" tonics made! In liquid or handy to carry tablet form (similar formula). Try it!

You Can Be Beautiful

Protect Softness of Lips

By ARLINE GOULD

THERE IS one lipstick that the veriest he-man of them all feels no qualms about wielding . . . and that's the one made of white lip-pomade . . . an essential part of equipment for the outdoor life.

And you girls who take your snow and ice where you find it . . . the coating of lipstick is not sufficient protection. You should smooth on some of the colorless softener and protector before the lipstick goes on . . . and your lips will stay smooth the whole winter through.

Men are so helpless about such things . . . they would like some lip pomade, but they're slow about looking it up, and don't often get around to buying it . . . so you should be the good little pal and get the newest one that's arrived in town. It's only a dollar, a big, generous size, and put in a simple white and chrome container.

It's the newest addition to a very elegant custom-made-cosmetic department, and you may be sure that is was compounded with the greatest of care, and of the best ingredients available.

If you would really make the best of its goodness, be sure to use it after you've come in from the outdoors as well as before. This is absolute insurance against chapping or cracking . . . and if you've ever suffered with a cracked lip, you know what a long-time, painful sort of thing it is.

If you would like to learn about this new lip pomade, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days, until five-thirty, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addresed envelope.

Better Fall Back On Your Pride

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I really don't know what happened to make us break up. We had been going together for almost two years, and were practically engaged. He wasn't working then, but we planned to marry when he got a permanent job. But when he got the job, he turned indifferent, and now I see him only occasionally. ROSE

When a young man drops you for no reason at all, it is a very good thing to fall back on your pride and show him that you don't care. I can't advise you too strongly to stop discussing this young man with your friends. It is cheapening to yourself. And remember that fine old proverb: There are still as good fish in the sea as ever were caught.

Hand-Written 'Thank-Yous'

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A friend has sent you a gift? This means that you must acknowledge the gift with a note. It can be a brief note, but the words must be yours, not the words supplied on cards by a printer.

If you are haunted with fear or dismay at the thought of writing a thank-you note, don't like a coward, rush to the stationer's to buy a ready-made thank-you card. This is no way to reward your friend for his or her thoughfulness.

Such a simple note as, for example, "You were so kind to think of me at Christmas-time. The handkerchiefs you sent me are beauties. Thank you for your goodness," is of vastly more value to your friend than the frigidly impersonal words composed by the printer. You can't say your thanks in someone else's words!

Many Uses For Crusts

By MARTHA LEE

A crusty disposition will win you no friends, but be crusty with your dishes and you'll influence people—sure as the mail must go through.

Varied is the manner crustaceous. As the bottom and top of pies you know it well. But crust (which may be taken here to mean the baked or unbaked variety, of biscuit or of pastry—and with variations) has a dozen of uses.

COBBLE AND ROLL

Use it to make cobblers of fruit or nuts; use it as a tender topping for meat and fowl stews; let it make a dumpling—apple, mince or whatever the jars in your pantry afford. Make "roll-ups" with crust by placing chopped ingredients on rolled out dough then rolling it up to bake. Slice off these rolls and make "pinwheels." Roll strips of crust into strips and bake to serve with soup. Wrap crust around pasteurized dates and bake them. Sprinkle crust "diamonds" with sugar and cinnamon and broil them to serve with sweet salads or with afternoon coffee.

Go ahead and be crustaceous and let "some crust" be your praise

BAKING POWDER BISCUIT

(For topping, rolling up, etc.)

2½ cups sifted flour
4 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
5 tbsp. shortening
¾ cup milk (about)

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or two knives. Add milk enough to make soft but not sticky dough. Pat out ½-inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with floured biscuit cutter; place on baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 14.

HAMBERGER ROLL-UPS

1 onion
2 tbsp. cooking oil
1½ lbs. ground beef
4 tbsp. flour
1½ tsp. salt
Few grains pepper
1 cup milk
1 recipe baking powder biscuit dough

Slice onion thin, brown in cooking oil. Add ground beef; brown lightly. Add flour, salt and pepper; mix well. Add milk. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Roll out biscuit dough to ¼-inch thickness; cover with meat mixture. Roll jelly-roll fashion; cut in 1½-inch pieces. Place cut side down in oiled pan; bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 45 minutes. Serve with mushroom sauce. Serves 6.

CRUST VARIATIONS

Biscuit crust may be varied many ways. Try adding grated cheese or a couple of tablespoons of minced parsley or chopped pimiento—or substitute a half-cup hot mashed potatoes for a half-cup of the flour in the basic recipe—or use tomato juice as the liquid in making biscuit. Cut biscuit dough in rounds or with a doughnut cutter; or cut into pie-shaped wedges to make diamonds.

EAST BOSTON GIRL DEAD IN MYSTERY

Stricken with a sudden, mysterious illness, Helen Bielakiewcz, 15-year-old East Boston High School sophomore, collapsed and died in her mother's arms today.

Because of circumstances surrounding the death East Boston police and detectives of the homicide squad at headquarters started an investigation.

Police quoted the girl's mother, Mrs. Stanley Bielakiewcz, as saying her daughter returned to their home in Falcon st., East Boston, after a visit to a friend's house, and as she prepared to retire she complained of feeling ill.

Later she awoke, crying for her mother, then collapsed.

Mrs. Bielakiewcz called a nearby physician, who pronounced the girl dead. The frantic mother then notified police.

An autopsy was to be made today by Dr. William J. Brickley, medical examiner. Meanwhile, Capt John F. McCarthy of the homicide squad took charge of an investigation.

According to police, the Bielakiewcz girl was popular among students at East Boston High. The family uses the name of Bellvich.

Two weeks ago, police quoted the mother as informing them, the daughter was seized with chest pains, at first believed to be a heart attack.

She was stricken again last night in Eagle sq., East Boston, while on the way home, investigators said, and a girl acquaintance, Mary Kelly, also of Falcon st., assisted her home.

A Complete Short Story Daily on This Page

By HOLLIS STARNES

LIBBY SEVIER was on the way to her first Broadway audition. If the playwright and director said she was the type, she might be an actress.

As her Aunt Sue left the tall, striking, red-blonde girl at the stage door, she gave a last appraising look over Libby's brand new costume, make-up and coiffure. "Who could believe," the older woman gushed, "you're the same girl who landed here from down home six months ago?"

Libby made an effort to smile politely. Her aunt had financed her these six months in New York, had sent her to dramatic school and bought her this new wardrobe for her first audition. "What New York can do for a girl!" Sue Sevier continued approvingly. "Well, good luck! Don't be nervous. Just present your letter of introduction to Mr. Dunn."

"Yes, Aunt Sue," the girl said dutifully and went in to the theatre.

As she passed along the hallway that led to the stage, Libby caught a reflection of herself in a full-length mirror. Her aunt was right. Turned out in an exotic black 'advance model,' with fur jacket and a matching turban, her red hair smartly coiffed and more make up on her face than ever she had seen before in all her 18 years, Libby Sevier could scarcely believe her own eyes. It had cost Aunt Sue a month's salary to outfit her for this event. "New clothes will give you confidence," her benefactress had said. But Libby was actually trembling as she made her way to the stage.

A BIG OPPORTUNITY

A throng of girls were already on hand, chattering, giggling or looking as Libby did, frightened of the ordeal. There must have been a hundred in the tense, milling group, Libby estimated. From the hundred, six were to be chosen for Long Island debutantes in a new "society comedy" by Wakefield Dunn, who according to her Aunt, always wrote smash hits that ran a year. The debutante group would have no lines in the play, but appear in several scenes—"a marvelous chance for a beginner," declared Aunt Sue.

Libby had a letter to the fabulous Mr. Dunn from a friend of some friend of her Aunt's. Since before Libby was born, Sue had been a clerk in the New York office of a film company's scenario department. Her whole life was centered in the excitements of Broadway and Hollywood. A nervous little wisp of a woman, now in her middle fifties, her one ambition now was for her pretty niece to be an actress.

The Cast of Characters in "Mule-Headed"

LIBBY SEVIER, who would rather own a team of mules than be a stage star.

WAKEFIELD DUNN, a playwright, whose second interest is a tractor.

Born and reared on a farm in the North Carolina mountains, Libby wanted to be a farmer. Since her father's death she and her 16-year-old brother had tried to run their 40-acre place, handicapped by lack of time, help and equipment.

The past June Libby had graduated from the village high school. The farm had needed cash for a team of mules, and Libby decided to ask her aunt for a loan. She sent along her graduation picture."

"A girl with your looks belongs on the stage," came back the amazing response. "I'll send transportation to get you to New York and give you a course in dramatic school. But not a penny for farming. I don't believe in women farmers."

It was Libby's brother who had seen the way to turn Aunt Sue's "gift horse" into mules. "Go ahead up to New York," he counseled. "Get to be a movie star or stage actress. With the big money you'll make, we can get mules, a new truck, mebbe a tractor." His eyes had danced in anticipation.

So here she was, waiting for her first Broadway audition. "What New York can do for a girl!" Bitterly she reflected on her aunt's words. Gone was her joy in life, her self-confidence, her serenity. Homesick for her family and friends, her heart longed even more deeply for her native mountains, the clear sky, and above all for the farm that had been her life.

Libby braced herself and approached a group of girls to ask where she could find Mr. Dunn. "You mean the author?" one girl gasped in awe. "He's there at the conference table with the director and producers." To the front of the stage, Libby saw a quartet of men seated at a long table.

"I have a letter for Mr. Dunn," explained Libby.

"Better not crash in now," advised the girl tartly; "you'll likely go out on your ear. You'll just have to wait your turn, like the rest."

MR. WAKEFIELD DUNN

Libby thanked her meekly and retreated to the dim background. Watching the girls around her, all pretty, self-assured and beautifully groomed, she wondered what chance a farm girl could have against these city types. "No chance at all!" she told herself fiercely. She wanted to run out, to disappear from that stage and from the face of the earth. Tears began to gather in her blue eyes, and her throat tightened. Then suddenly with a daring born of desperation she pushed her way through the crowd and approached the conference table.

"Which is Mr. Wakefield Dunn, please?" she asked firmly.

Four pairs of eyes were raised. The only young man in the quartet responded tersely: "I'm Dunn." His eyes were brown, Libby noted, and they were cool but kind.

"How're you?" Libby began in her soft mountain drawl, and proffered her letter. Then suddenly everything began to whirl before her. She clutched the table as it seemed to multiply into a series of tables, at each of which sat four strange men, all staring up at her. She shut her eyes to keep back the tears.

When she opened them, she was seated in a small, bare dressing-room, and the cool brown eyes of Wakefield Dunn were looking down on her. "Oh!" gasped Libby.

"Take it easy," he counseled. "You passed out, that's all."

"Passed out?"

"Fainted they may still call it," he explained, "where you come from."

"People don't faint," Libby informed him, "down where I come from." She looked away sheepishly. "It must have been the air," she murmured.

"Or stage fright," he suggested and smiled.

"You chose a highly dramatic method," he said, "of bringing yourself to their attention. Just crumpled up in a handsome heap."

She bowed her head in shame. "Did those other men see me?"

"You chose a highly dramatic method," he nodded, "of bringing yourself to their attention. Just crumpled up in a handsome heap."

"Oh!" Libby gasped again.

"All were agreed," he went on drily, "that you had youth and beauty, exceeding grace of movement." He was grinning broadly, but she knew he was not really making fun of her. He was a very engaging young man, tall and strong, not like the New Yorkers you saw in the subways.

"What I want to know," he was saying, "is what experience you've had."

"Farmed all my life," she answered proudly. As an after-thought she added: "I'm just out of dramatic school."

He was laughing now, but not at her, she felt. "Whatever made you think of the stage?"

"I wanted money for a team of mules," she explained gravely. "My aunt up here wouldn't lend it to me. She gave me a course in acting instead. She doesn't believe in women farmers."

"Nor do I," decided Wakefield Dunn, "if they look like her niece!"

Libby glanced guiltily into the mirror above the dressing-room shelf. "I sure look a sight," she deplored. "All this stuff on my face!" He was still smiling. "Reckon it sounds right silly," she said, "for any one to be wanting to get on the stage to buy mules."

"Well," he confessed, "what brought me up here first was a chance to earn money for a tractor."

"You're a farmer, too!" cried Libby. She stood up, her eyes glistening, and stretched out her hand. "Where's your place?" she wanted to know.

"Just over the Tennessee border from your State," he told her as he clasped her hand.

"How'd you know where I come from?" she demanded.

"Mountain talk," he answered smiling. "We're just a couple of hillbillies!"

"But you write plays about——" she stammered.

"Long Island society?" he put in with a grin. "And get away with it. So why can't you play a Yankee doh? Come on out now, mountain gal, and show 'em!"

"You mean I have a chance!" she cried.

"If you don't faint too often," he was grinning.

"Farmers don't faint," she declared stoutly.

"Then I'd say," pronounced Wakefield Dunn, "the chances are good for that team of mules. The author thinks you're just the type!"

THE END.

You'll enjoy tomorrow's delightful story. The author is Izola Forrester. She calls it "If It Wasn't for Women."

New U. S. Battle Looms Over Gold

A new monetary battle at Washington is in the making, and the battle lines will be drawn at the forthcoming hearings before the Senate banking committee.

The advocacy by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank, of returning gold to monetary circulation is proving a rallying point for those desirous of heading off the movement to induce the government to stop buying gold — or at least to cease bidding for foreign gold.

Those who see eye to eye with Mr. Aldrich think that cessation of gold buying would have catastrophic results. They say that it would result in a tumbling of the price of gold down toward its value in the industrial arts perhaps to one-third of the $35 price set by the government. They point out that it would be foolish for our government, owning 60 per cent of the world's monetary supply of gold, to make any moves which would depreciate the worth of this colossal asset.

ADVOCATES of recoining gold and putting it into circulation argue that this would be a preparation for post-war world financial leadership by the United States. They point out that it would make the dollar of such definite value that it would be the measure for all other currencies.

This school of thought holds the proposed use of the gold dollar as the leading world monetary yardstick instead of the pound sterling would give Americans a competitive advantage in world trade.

ON THE OTHER HAND, they point out that cessation of gold buying by the United States during the war would be disadvantageous to Great Britain and France, depriving them of legal methods of achieving purchasing power in the United States for war supplies. With the Johnson Act forbidding loans to nations in default on war debt and with the Neutrality Act demanding sales on a "cash" basis, it is argued that closing the American market for gold would shut off an important means of payment and would redound to the benefit of Germany.

MR. ALDRICH has urged resumption of specie payment on the basis of $35 gold, instead of going back to the pre-depression level of $20.67 an ounce, on the one hand, or further raising of the price of gold, on the other.

Those who line up with Mr. Aldrich point out that any marking down of the current gold price would necessitate an inventory loss for the United States, and that permission to foreigners to take it out for less than $35 an ounce would give them a double profit on the round trip of first exporting the gold to the United States at the advanced price and then importing it from the United States by giving up fewer dollars for it than was originally received in payment.

AT PRESENT, Uncle Sam is the sole gold hoarder in the United States. Under Mr. Aldrich's plan, the hoarding privilege would be shared with citizens and with foreigners.

To the extent that foreigners absorb gold coin, the government, which now may be in danger of getting stuck with overvalued gold, would be unloading it on individuals still influenced by the age-old gold fetich.

IMMEDIATE RESUMPTION of specie payment is urged by those who think that, if we remain off the gold standard too long, gold will lose its hold on the human imagination, and consequently will decline in value.

MR. ALDRICH'S simultaneous recommendation that the Federal Reserve authorities be permitted to extend reserve requirements beyond what the present law permits is designed to curb the inflationary potentials of the existing gold supply. If adopted, it would in effect offset much of the inflationary significance of the entire devaluation program.

One reason why the inflation thus far has not taken hold is that bankers have felt that excess deposits were fluff, not permanent and genuine in character, and have accordingly declined to invest the ever mounting excess reserves. Thus, there has been managerial resistance to the automatic flow of consequences as contemplated in the quantity theory of money.

Stock Prices Stumble After Rally

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (AP)—The stock market tried to put a foot forward today but stumbled after a mild advance at the start.

Dealings, sluggish on the half-hearted recovery attempt, picked up a bit as prices gave ground. Losses of fractions to more than a point predominated.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were among the first to step down. There were followed by Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda, General Electric, International Mercantile Marine and Loft.

Bankers Back B.&M. Plan

Recommending that banks and insurance companies "lead the way" in assenting to the plan of exchange in order to accomplish voluntary reorganization of the Boston and Maine Railroad's debt structure, a report was issued today by the bank and insurance group committee on Boston and Maine Railroad bonds, representing savings banks and insurance companies in Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Maine and New Hampshire.

The committee, which represents holders of approximately 40 per cent of the Boston and Maine's outstanding bonds affected by the plan, reports that the situation confronting B. & M. creditors "is a clear cut case of whether the bondholders will voluntarily co-operate to reach a conclusion, which should result in an improved value for their holdings; or whether, by disagreement or self-seeking, the plan must be abandoned for bankruptcy proceedings."

Declaring bankruptcy would be "an unnecessary sacrifice because the management, under President French during the past decade has proved itself of outstanding ability and a valuable asset to be preserved," the committee asserts, "in the opinion of this committee, the B & M has been a leader in developing and applying new and more efficient methods for operating a railroad."

The committee is headed by J. Reed Morss, vice-president, Boston Five Cents Savings Bank.

RETURN TO GOLD SEEN 1940 ISSUE

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—A political contest of major importance in a presidential year is impending in both branches in Congress over the Administration's gold-hoarding policy, now beginning to be recognized as one of the principal factors retarding domestic and impeding the flow of international trade.

Restoration of a free gold market in the United States, with the return of the gold hoard of about 500,000,000 ounces of free gold or approximately 14,000 tons of the precious metal to circulation in the form of money, in the opinion of leading economists here, and of students of the monetary problem in Congress, would have an immediate beneficial effect throughout the whole of American business.

Republicans who believe the time has come to terminate the present gold policy, and conservative Democrats of like mind, are trying to work out a formula for bringing the issue squarely before Congress and the people.

Economists who have been consulted have informed Congressional students of the money question that the United States could return to the gold standard at this time not only without dislocation of economy at home or abroad, but with immense advantage to the American people, and with beneficial effect upon international trade.

WOULD END FEARS

Abandonment of the present policy and the restoration of a free gold market, it is pointed out, for the first time since the policy was adopted in 1934 would make possible the issuance of long-term obligations, sustained by a public relieved of apprehension.

Two Republican members of the House banking and currency committee, Charles L. Gifford, of Massachusetts, and Fred L. Crawford, of Michigan, have declared in favor of an immediate abandonment of the gold hoarding policy.

"The very grave danger to the entire monetary system in continuing the hoarding of gold should receive the prompt attention of Congress," said Mr. Gifford.

"People who desire hard money should now be granted the privilege of using it. It would do much to allay the fear of such tremendous issues of paper money, manufactured simply by the issuance of public debt.

such as the "small arsenal" they found in New York city in the course of a continuing six-month investigation of the alleged conspirators.

Among their tentative aims Hoover said, was the assassination of 12 congressmen—identities not disclosed—as examples to all those who voted for repeal of the arms embargo.

The day for striking against the government, Hoover said, was to be soon after a final drill in bombing and firing which had been set for January 20—next Saturday.

He said elaborate plans had been made for the theft of armament for revolutionary use from National Guard arsenals.

"The group depended," Hoover said, "upon terrorism and ultimate demoralization of communities to attain their objective. First of all they aimed at terrorization of Jews—all Jews. At the same time, according to their plans, they were to seize communications, transportation systems, customs and postoffices."

USED "NAZI SALUTE"

He said the leaders of the alleged conspiracy were John F. Cassidy, Brooklyn head of the "Christian front," and William Gerald Bishop, leader of a "sports club," known as the "Country Gentlemen," secretly operating behind the front.

Cassidy, he said, was saluted Nazi-wise and addressed by the followers as "Fuehrer."

Hoover disclosed that much of the evidence against the alleged conspiracy was obtained with long range cameras operated by FBI agents from vantage points around the training camp of the organization at Narrowsburg, about 109 miles upstate in New York.

There, he said, the men were drilled in the use of arms and the making of bombs.

COUGHLIN DENIES LINK

Cassidy has professed himself to be a follower of principles outlined by the Rev. Charles Coughlin, but the Michigan radio priest last night, "roundly disavowed" any connection with the "Christian Front" whose members are under arrest.

Father Coughlin said he had advocated a "real Christian front to oppose these fakers."

The Royal Oak priest charged that "this so-called Christian Front" was of Communist, or Bundist, origin organized "along their policies of boring from within to embarass the real Christians of this nation."

HOW YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.41 A MONTH

You can get cash simply and promptly at Household Finance, if you can repay your loan in monthly installments. You borrow without endorsers or guarantors and repay on the installment plan which fits your own needs and your own income.

Choose your own payment plan

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. Loans are also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Note that you may make very small payments if you wish. See also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Charges on a $100 loan repaid in four monthly installments of $26.58 each, for instance, are only $6.32. (All payments shown in the table include the charges.)

CASH LOAN YOU GET	AMOUNT YOU PAY BACK EACH MONTH Including All Charges
	2 months loan	4 months loan	8 months loan	12 months loan	16 months loan	18 months loan	16 months loan	20 months loan
$ 20	$10.38	$ 5.32	$ 3.63	$ 2.79	$ 2.29	$ 1.95
50	25.94	13.29	9.08	6.97	5.71	4.87
70	36.32	18.61	12.71	9.76	8.00	6.82	$ 5.56	$ 4.49
100	51.88	26.58	18.15	13.95	11.43	9.75	7.66	6.41
125	64.85	33.23	22.69	17.43	14.28	12.19	9.57	8.02
150	77.82	39.87	27.23	20.92	17.14	14.62	11.49	9.62
200	103.77	53.16	36.31	27.89	22.85	19.50	15.32	12.83
250	129.71	66.45	45.39	34.87	28.56	24.37	19.15	16.04
300	155.65	79.75	54.46	41.84	34.28	29.25	22.98	19.24

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household's rate of 2½% per month, which is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law.

By JACK CONWAY

THEY ARE CALLING Gene Venzke the Brass Monkey of the milers as a result of the sensational finish that enabled him to win from Glenn Cunningham at the Veterans of Foreign Wars track meet at the Garden. Venzke, like Brass Monkey usually does on winning days, came from nowhere to take the lead in the dream mile, and then by courage and speed succeeded in holding off the last lap rush of Cunningham.

As Venzke turned for home, Cunningham was roaring at his left shoulder. Even under such great stress Venzke was calling upon every bit of his vast knowledge of track events to keep out front. Gene edged over to his own right, and made Cunningham go as wide as possible. Venzke needed those inches in the photo finish.

The public always likes to see a champion go down to defeat, and it rooted wildly for Venzke to conquer Cunningham. It has become monotonous watching Cunningham win mile races in Boston.

The time of 4m. 13 1-10s, was slow, and it indicated that Cunningham and the other runners have not rounded into top form. This fact helped make the competition more keen. Nobody could have any complaint of the last three laps of the race which were packed with thrills.

The committee in charge of the dream mile had not considered Venzke good enough to compete in it. It was felt that Gene had gone back and that he could not compete on even terms against Cunningham and the other crack milers. Venzke was entered in the 880 yards invitation.

Reporting in Boston Venzke declared he was fit, and he pleaded for the right to participate in the dream mile.

Sanford Goldberg, New York 880 and 1000 yard runner, was anxious to compete in the 880 yards invitation. This may have caused the committee to grant Venzke's request. Gene then paid off the committee and the crowd with one of the big thrills of the indoor season.

Charlie Beetham of New York, winner of the 880 yard invitation, Leslie Pawson, victor of the three mile race, and Don Lash, who triumphed in the two mile event, were also rated as heroes in my book.

The Veterans did themselves proud by staging one of the best track meets ever witnessed in this city. Now that the veterans established themselves in the Garden and have proved they can secure the entries of the leading runners their future track meets are certain to draw capacity crowds.

There were 9000 persons in the Garden on Saturday night. If the public had felt Cunningham would be defeated and that there would be so many other stirring finishes, the places would not have been large enough to have accommodated the gathering that would have wished to have attended it.

Bess Ehrhardt and Evelyn Chandler

BESS EHRHARDT AND Evelyn Chandler will be back on the Garden ice tonight as they take part in the "Ice Follies of 1940." Roy Shipstead, Henie Brock and the other stars of this famous show will also be on parade.

Without taking away any glory from Sonja Henie, it can be said without much fear of contradiction that the "Ice Follies of 1940" will be the best ice carnival to appear here this season. It is a well balanced show, and there should not be a dull moment from start to finish.

Sonja dazzles and draws capacity houses, but her show is not as strong as the "Ice Follies of 1940." It is a Sonja show, and as long as it does well financially it will not be changed to give it added strength.

During the past half dozen years the American people have become ice carnival and ski minded. This is one of the reasons shows like the one that will open tonight have been so successful.

The girl skaters have amazing grace, and they appeal to all groups. Thousands of young girls look forward to seeing Bess Ehrhardt, Evelyn Chandler and Sonja Henie with the same enthusiasm that boys anticipate a ball game in which Joe DiMaggio and Jimmy Foxx will compete. This customer appeal results in soaring gate receipts.

The ice carnival also offers girls another opportunity to star in athletics. If girls can make good at fancy skating, they can make fortunes. It is estimated that Sonja Henie has earned $1,000,000 as a result of her ability as a skater.

Gov. Murphy Spurs Drive to Buy Yanks

Gov. Frank Murphy of New Hampshire is today making renewed efforts to organize a syndicate that will be able to purchase the New York Yankees and their extensive farm system which includes the Kansas City and Newark ball clubs.

It was learned today that Gov. Murphy has talked about the Yankee deal with millionaire owners of Maine mills, and with other important business interests.

The Yankee deal, if completed, will require $6,000,000.

There is a valuation of $2,000,000 on the Yankee Stadium, $2,00,000 on the Yankee players and franchise, $1,000,000 on Kansas City and $1,000,000 on Newark and the other Yankee farms.

An estate has had control of the Yankees since the death of Col Jake Ruppert. If the price is right, and $6,000,000 is the sum set, the estate will sell.

Governor Murphy has always been interested in baseball, and at one time he tried to acquire the Boston National League club.

Governor Murphy is wealthy in his own right, and many of his close friends are millionaires and also sports minded.

It is expected that something definite will break within a few days on Governor Murphy's negotiations for control of the Yanks.

Hot Springs Club Wiped Out

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 15 (AP)—President Lloyd Adams of the Hot Springs Baseball Club in the Cotton States League said today the ruling of Commissioner Kenesaw Landis left his team with only one player for 1940.

Looking over the list of 88 minor leaguers declared free agents by Landis, the Hot Springs official declared

"That wipes our roster clean with the exception of Manager Conard Fisher."

Adams said he hoped plans could be worked out for Detroit to operate the club again next year.

Demaret Takes $5000 Golf

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 15 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret, crooning golf professional from Houston, Tex., won the $5000 Oakland Open Medal Play Tournament today with a 72-hole total of 281. He played the four rounds of the Sequoyah Course in one stroke over par figures.

BEES, SOX SCRAMBLE FOR TIGER CASTOFFS

By JOE CASHMAN

Dismantlement of the Detroit farm system by Commissioner K. N. Landis, which freed five Tiger players and 87 farm hands, was received with great interest by officials of both Boston clubs today.

Both the Red Sox and Bees evinced a desire to sign Benny McCoy, crack young second baseman, who was one of the Detroit players declared a free agent.

The Bees also think highly of Pitcher Steve Rachunok, who won 20 games for the Henderson club of the East Texas League last year, and who looked like the real stuff when he came up to the Tigers late in the year.

But whether the Bees can land the big prizes or not, they expect to benefit from the 87 farm hands released for practically every one of them came under the jurisdiction

EAGLE SIX TO TEST TERRIERS

Another of those Boston College-Boston University "naturals" unfolds tomorrow night at the Arena. The Eagles and Terriers will clash in an ice battle to decide which of the teams will continue to lead the New England Collegiate Hockey League. At present, each owns two wins in league competition.

For this battle, which John Kelley, B. C. coach of the Chestnut Hill team, terms "the most important B. U. game of my six years at Boston College," the Eagles will line up with Sophomore Hugh Sharkey of Belmont in goal.

Though he has seen relief duty, Sharkey has not yet started a game. He won his chance by holding Northeastern to a single goal in two periods of sub work.

SHARKEY FLASHES

Erratic when playing for the freshman team last season, Sharkey showed real improvement this semester when put into the Northeastern game. That night he was as hot as when he was in the Greater Boston prep league and three years ago he played goal for the G. B. I. All Stars.

The game tomorrow will among other things, be a minor reunion of G. B. I. pals, as Jim Healy, fullback, and Tom Healy, Henry Sullivan, one of the Eagle guards, among the Terrier forwards, has only a sophomore team in the champ[illegible] of the two schools.

At that time Healy and Bob Briggs of the Terriers will be wearing opposing Prep School togs. Al Dowd and Ralph Powers of B. C. are second line members.

MANY G. B. I. GRADS

Other Greater Boston League graduates with tomorrow night's rivals include the Terriers' Co-Capt Ed Richardson and Defenseman Red Elliot, both of Medford; Boston College's Ray Chaisson, Larry Houle and Jim Boudreau, all of Cambridge Latin; Bob Mc[illegible] of Arlington, Ed Dowd and Charlie Sullivan of Stoneham.

With talent like that on display tomorrow night at the Eagle and Terrier nest, be the greatest battle of their colorful series.

Bay State Hockey League Aces Favored Over Greater Bostons

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

There's still another half of the hockey schedules to be completed before the grand windup the All Star game—but according to the class of hockey being played in the Bay State League, the Greater Bostons are going to have their hands full when the circuits' aces clash.

Friday night's session of the Bay Staters provided as much, if not more, exciting ice action than the afternoon meeting of the senior loop.

And to start the Greater Bostons worrying about their All Star record, there's a smart and speedy first line playing for the league-leading Waltham high six that could skate on the same surface with any front wave trio.

GREAT LINE

Hec Rousseau, Perley Grant and Bob Connor will match strides and shots with the best in the schoolboy ranks.

Then, there are those three boys who have put Needham into a first place tie with the Watch City club. Though they're not the Waltham set's equal as a passing combination, Don Lumsden, Mal McLeod and Larry Arra can carry the mail—and then deposit it in opponents' strings—with plenty of style.

Without even making any changes in these first two attacking lines, we could have a fine chance of getting yourself a lot of goals by packing these six in the big tilt.

But there have to be alternates and you don't have to dig awfully deep to find individuals capable of filling in any empty slots. Just for a starter, there's Bob Mason, B. C. High, who is up with the leading scorers in spite of his many invasions in the penalty box.

Ray Villa and Jack Cunniff of Wellesley wouldn't weaken any schoolboy line. They're only a few of top forwards in the league who will probably cause a lot of trouble for the Greater Bostons, providing they keep up their present pace to make the team.

These Bay Staters haven't looked good, because competition is weaker, but in equal competition they show up well with the Greater Bostons.

GOALIES CAPABLE

And if you don't think so, try getting a few past Bill Shannon, Watertown; Spike Nyland, Wellesley; Ed Kerrissey, Needham, or Ted Schofield, Quincy, who has been getting less protection than any goalie in the league.

Of course, there's still a long way to go on the schedule.

But unless those Greater Bostons pick up a lot of speed in their last half, we'll string along with the Juniors to break into the winner's circle this year.

Andy Callahan In Hub Bout

Andy Callahan of Lawrence will return to the local fistic wars when he collides with Young Byron of Roxbury in one of the two featured ten-round bouts at an Argonne A. A. show at Mechanics Building on Thursday night.

Callahan and Byron are both in good condition and should furnish a punching duel.

In the other ten, Salvator Bartolo of East Boston will tangle with Baby "Poison" Ivy of Hartford.

Bartolo recently scored an upset victory over Abe Denner, and is confident he can also dispose of Ivy. The latter held George Salamone to a draw at the Argonne Club's show last week. Bartolo and Ivy will be supported by a strong card.

In a pair of sixes Johnny Sorenson of Providence, R. I. meets Leo Dulmaine of Worcester and Jackie Caperelli of Boston clashes with Tony Gouveia of Brockton. Sorenson has been in with Dusty Brown twice each winning the duke, while Leo Dulmaine is a twice winner on Argonne shows.

Jackie Caperalli is a local boxer who has made good in fights throughout New England rings, while Tony Gouveia has been in with Jerry Maloni, Jackie Thompson, Frankie Young, Young Lefty and Babe Synott.

A four rounder between Freddie Driscoll of Quincy and Eddie Holmes will open the show.

Waltham Legion Ring Show Listed

Waltham Post, 76, American Legion will stage its third elimination tournament in its Golden Glove series Wednesday evening at Waltham Arena.

Competition will be held in 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160-pound classes, all open.

Already entered are Joe Silva, East Boston 160-pounder; Steve Kronis, Boston, 126; Guy Vitagliano, Medford, 118; Ray Fournier, Manchester, N. H., 118; Vincent Scalese, Arlington, 160; Tommy Hill, Lawrence, 160; Frankie Newman, Lawrence, 160; Jake Harris, Malden, 126; Tommy Albanese, East Boston, 147; Jimmy Taylor, Lowell, 147.

Entries may be made with John Winchester, 80 Warren st., Waltham.

Tyler Bob-Sled Wins A. A. U. Title

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 13 (AP)—Husky Francis Tyler was forced to show all his driving skill to win the four-man Junior A. A. U. bobsledding title down Mt. Van Hoevenberg's icy run.

Tyler's combined time for the four one-mile heats was 4:39.76, but Bill Linney of Lyon Mountain, appearing in the second race of his career, sped down the treacherous slopes in 1:09.34 for the fastest single heat of the day.

Ellenwood Wins Skating Crown

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Jan. 13 (AP)—Cheering the fans as he made a second place for 50 points, to bring his total to 60, Ted Ellenwood of Fort Jamison flashed to victory in the 220-mile annual Eastern States speed skating championship.

Ellenwood, who won only one third place, has captured today's fifty-mile race. He placed second in the [illegible] with the fifth.

Wesley Wood of Hudson N. J. finished second with 55 points, and Bill Stanton of Troy finished third.

The senior women's title went to Alice Barnham of New York although she failed to win a race.

Amerks Trip Red Wings

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP) — Nels Stewart, still "old poison" around the nets, potted a second-period goal tonight to give the New York Americans a 1-0 victory over the Detroit Red Wings and return the Wings to a last-place tie with the Americans.

More than 8000 fans braved a rain storm to watch the unexciting game in which the defenses had the upper hand from the start.

Karakas Stars As Reds Win, 2-0

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 13 (AP)—Given airtight protection by his new Rhode Island Reds teammates, Mike Karakas, recent Chicago goalie, registered his first International-American Hockey League shutout by a 2-0 margin over Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians.

The visitors fired only 18 shots at Karakas during the game and but three in the final period, owing to his mates' expert back-checking.

Hawks Break Rangers' String

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP)—The four-th-place Chicago Blackhawks put on a sensational exhibition to defeat the New York Rangers, 2 to 1—the first game the invaders had lost since Nov. 19. The Rangers had set a new National League record of having won or tied 19 straight games.

The Hawks scored first in the opening period and then ran their advantage to 2-0 midway of the third period. The Rangers got their only goal with less than five minutes to play.

The hero of the Hawk's surprising triumph was little Paul Goodman, the goalie who saved goal after goal in spectacular style, often smothering the Rangers' bullet shots with his body on the ice.

The defeat knocked the Rangers out of undisputed possession of first place in the league.

As the game ended the crowd stood and gave a tremendous ovation to Goodman, who spent much of the time on the ice smothering Ranger shots, but never let the puck get by until late in the final period.

Ehrhardt, Chandler in Town For '40 Ice Follies Opening

By WILL CONNELL

Most colorful show of the sports calendar, the Ice Follies, moved into the Garden today with a flock of electricians and prop men setting the ice stage for tonight's opening.

With 65 professional skaters in a cast headed by most of the world's top ice entertainers, the Follies opens a week's stand at the Garden with a show each night ending Sunday, and Saturday and Sunday matinees.

Bess Ehrhardt and Roy Shipstad, Evelyn Chandler and Bruce Mapes, Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson, Heinie Brock, Idi Papez and Karl Zwack are Boston favorites who return with a Follies lineup which includes several new stars.

The current Follies wardrobe includes some 350 new costumes, and is almost entirely a new show which has been playing to full houses since its Hollywood debut last September.

The big feature of the Follies, lacking in most figure skating shows, is comedy. This has been developed to a new high this year.

The McKellen Brothers, newcomers to the show, combine comic and acrobatic skating. Les Hamilton, Kansas City youngster, has a Miss Snowflake laugh number that's said to be a standout.

Heinie Brock has a new version of his famed drama of a festive lad in top-hat, white tie and tails. Rubberlegged Heinie, who used to be a champion fancy diver but found skating more profitable, is in a class with Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson, great comedians.

And a "Frick and Frack" pair fun-skating number rounds out the varied comic department.

The figure skating by Miss Ehrhardt and Roy Shipstad, pair and solo; Miss Papez and Swack, pair; Miss Chandler and Mapes, pair and solo; Ruby and Bobby Maxson, pair; Laverne Busher, girl dancer on skates; Canadian champions Osborne Colson and Frances Claudet, soloes and pair, are staged against the background of a finely trained chorus.

There's not a thing lacking in this musical comedy on ice, one show really meriting the press agent's superlatives. Boston folk are very likely to respond by setting some kind of an attendance record over the next seven days.

HI, BOSTON!

Bess Ehrhardt, Ice Follies star, greets Hub on arrival for show opening tonight at Garden.

$7000 Salary For Kern

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan 15 (AP)—No more rumors. Bill Kern has taken the job—as football coach at West Virginia University.

Kern, who quit at Carnegie Tech a week ago today, was engaged by the Mountaineers late Saturday to succeed Dr. Marshall (Sleepy) Glenn, who resigned to become a physician.

The new coach's salary is reported at $7000 annually for three years.

A former assistant to "Jock" Sutherland at Pitt, Kern went to Tech in 1937 and the next year guided the Tartans to the mythical Eastern championship and was named the outstanding coach of 1938. Last season, however, Tech's showing was poor.

Farm Hand Hamill Earns Regular Job

By BILL GRIMES

Red Hamill, who was recalled from Hershey to be a "stand-in" for the injured Roy Conacher, played the lead role in the Bruins' 4 to 2 victory over Les Canadiens last night at the Boston Garden.

When the combatants came out for the third period, the score was one-all. But in the fourth minute of play, Hamill broke the tie on a three-man attack with Bill Cowley and Mel Hill. Then, after Woody Dumart had scored on a penalty shot, Hamill slapped in another tally, assisted by Cowley and Flash Hollett.

Hamill has been up with the Bruins for only one month but he has scored six goals and made five assists. And he has earned a regular berth with the Rossmen through his excellent all-around play.

The Bruins were first to score, Cowley caging the puck 15 seconds before the end of the first period.

Mel Hill started the scoring play. He raced down the right wing boards with the puck but was carried into the corner by Raymond. As Hill started to reverse the field and duck back up the boards, Toe Blake batted the puck off his stick and it flew across to Jack Portland. Big John passed forward to Cowley and Bill beat Claude Bourque to put the Bruins out in front.

Louie Trudel scored the equalizer at 12:57. Bill Summerhill dashed out of his own zone with the puck and went down the right boards with Trudel trailing slightly and to port. When Summerhill went over the Boston line, Trudel was still uncovered so Bill gave him the puck and Lou rifled it into the cage.

With the count still 1 and 1, the Bruins opened up at the start of the final period. Hamill broke the deadlock at 3:20 on a very clever passing attack.

Cowley took the puck in and then passed to Hill, who cut in off his wing. Bourque shifted to the left side of his cage and was crossed up when Mel slipped the puck over to Hamill, who came tearing in at top speed on the open side of the net, and the Bruins were again in the lead.

Six minutes later, Woody Dumart scored on a penalty shot, which was awarded when Walter Buswell hooked Milt Schmidt from behind when the Kraut was going in for a shot.

Hamill scored again at 12:06, assisted by Cowley and Hollett. With a half minute to go, Bill Summerhill beat Brimsek on a pass from Barry and Blake.

SOX, BEES TO JOIN MERRY SCRAMBLE FOR FREE AGENTS

of Bob Coleman, maanger of the Bees' Evansville farm, when Coleman was a member of the Detroit farm chain.

The Sox were hoping, now that Wally Moses has been transferred back to Connie Mack in the McCoy deal that they could put through a trade with the Tigers, who need an outfielder badly.

The Tigers figured they were all set with Moses, but now they must shop around again.

The Red Sox can save either Doc Cramer or Joe Vosmik with Dom DiMaggio in the fold, and they will be eager to do business with the Tigers if they can get some pitching or catching strength for either of the veteran gardeners.

The Sox are hoping against hope to get get Catcher Birdie Tebbets from the Tigers. They have made repeated bids for him in the past but never clicked. Now they are in a sweet position to renew their bargaining.

Again, if they could land Benny McCoy, they could use him for bait to get Catcher Frank Hayes from the A's, in case negotiations with the Tigers fall through.

At any rate, nothing can be done until Jan. 29, the date when the free agencies granted the 92 players will become effective. But when that day arrives, watch the Bees and Sox go. The elastic is off both their bankrolls.

Judge Landis Ruling Smashes Tiger Chain

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 (AP)—Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who always has the last word in organized baseball, has spoken again, and as a result the far-flung farm system of the Detroit Tigers is a mere shambles.

Landis, in a voluminous and strongly-worded report handed down yesterday, wrecked the intricate "chain-gang" setup of the American league club and warned baseball executives of even more severe penalties for similar rules infractions in the future.

He charged Detroit and affiliated clubs used "fake agreements," "false certificates of club relationships," "cover-up" deals and similar practices in operation of a farm system.

$500,000 PLAYERS

The nine-month investigation brought the following action:

1—Free agency was awarded 92 players, valued at close to $500,000, including Pitchers Paul Trout, Lloyd Dietz and Steve Rachunok, Infielder Benny McCoy and Outfielder Roy Cullenbine of the Detroit club. The other 87 were scattered among 15 minor league clubs.

2—All player transfers, except on waivers, between Detroit (including Beaumont of the Texas League and other subsidiary and affiliated clubs) and Toledo (American Association), Fort Worth (Texas League) and Lake Charles (Evangeline League), or their subsidiaries or affiliates, are prohibited for three years from the present time.

3—The Chicago Cubs were fined $1000 for contracting McCoy and Cullenbine before the inquiry was completed in the interest of their future employment in case they were declared free agents. The St. Louis Browns were fined $500 for contacting McCoy under similar circumstances.

NO CONTRACTS YET

4—The free agencies granted the 92 players will not become effective until Jan. 29 and no club may contract them before that date. Detroit and the clubs operating with Detroit in these rules violations cannot contract with any of the players for three years.

5—Cleveland of the American League was ordered to pay $2000 to Walter Carson, New Orleans Southern Association outfielder. Toledo, Detroit affiliate until recently, sent Carson to New Orleans and was paid $2000 for his contract. Toledo, in turn, secretly gave this amount to Cleveland.

6—Several other players entitled to free agency were disposed of by Detroit and farm clubs to other clubs for value. Landis ruled these players must be paid the amount received for them, either by Detroit, or the club acting for Detroit, the commissioner to settle any disputes over which club shall pay. The players, their present affiliations, and amounts awarded them follow:

$7500 TO IRV BURNS

John Lindsay Brown, Portland, $1500; Irving Jack Burns, Toronto, (Cambridge, Mass.), $7500; Frank Reiber, Toronto $5000; Clyde Smoll, Knoxville, Tenn., $2500; George Archie, Seattle, $3000; Chester Morgan, Louisville, $5000; Parke Ed Coleman, Portland, $3000.

Also Irving Barfling, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., $2500; John Zapor, Durham, N. C., $1000; Emile Dejonghe, Toronto, $4750; William Ehrensberger, Meridian, Miss., $6000; Joseph T. Hare, $1500; Ray Fritz, $1500; and Don French, $2500. The three's last latest club affiliations were not available at the commissioner's office.

Landis said he was giving notice to all clubs that the "evils of common control of player dealings of two clubs in the same league and perversion of 'working agreements' into arrangements for the wholesale 'covering up' of players must cease.

"All club officials and employes found to be involved in any such misconduct after this date will be placed on the ineligible list, maximum fines will be imposed upon each club concerned and all players mishandled therein will be declared free agents."

The Detroit case parallels in many ways the ruling against the St. Louis Cardinals in March, 1938. At that time, Landis declared more than 100 players free agents and fined the Cards and affiliated clubs a total of $2176.

But in the St. Louis case practically all of the players freed were from small classification leagues in contrast to the Detroit case.

Ten players each from the Toledo and Beaumont clubs were released, nine Fort Worth players, and one each from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, Shreveport and Tulsa of the Texas League.

Twenty-two of the others released belonged to the Hot Springs Club of the Cotton States League.

Threaten Armstrong With Suspension

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15 (INS)—An indefinite suspension in California is faced by Henry Armstrong and his manager, Eddie Mead, unless they show a legitimate reason why the welterweight champion should not go through with a title bout here against Cererino Garcia on Feb. 22.

That ultimatum was served today by Chairman Jery Giesler of the State Athletic Commission, who recalled that hte contract for the title bout was signed in Los Angels last Nov. 15. Giesler called a meeting for next Friday for all interested parties.

Jock Hutchinson Takes on Hackbarth

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 15 (AP)—Jock Hutchinson of Chicago, once holder of the United States and British open crowns, and Otto Hackbrath, veteran Cincinnati golf professional, met in an 18-hole playoff today for the national PGA seniors' golf championship.

Hackbrath shot par 70 over the wind-swept Bobby Jones Course yesterday to add to a 76 and tie Hutchison at 146. Hutchison came in with a 75 to add to a 71.

Sports Mirror

THREE YEARS AGO—Fred Jacoby, Jr., of North Bergen, N. J., awarded Townsend medal as leading outboard motorboat pilot of 1936.

ROSS ASKS SHORE TO PLAY AS FANS SHUN ICE GAMES

By BILL GRIMES

Although the authorities refuse to comment on the condition, attendance figures have fallen off alarmingly at recent Bruin games. There's only one reason . . . It isn't that the Bruins haven't been playing even better hockey than they displayed a year ago . . .

Nor is it because Eddie Shore has been devoting his time to his Springfield Indians . . . The reason is that there are only three worth while clubs in the N. H. L. . . . Bruins, Rangers and Toronto . . . The other four are "dime-a-dozen" outfits, which the fans refuse to lay it on the line to see.

Art Ross was in conference with Eddie Shore yesterday . . . He wants to get Mr. Hockey to agree to play for the Bruins . . . Ross is anxious to do his part toward renewing interest in the game in these parts . . . He believes Mr. Hockey is the gentleman who can perform that feat . . . The outcome of the Ross-Shore huddle was to be announced today.

CLAPPER INJURED

Capt. Dit Clapper is suffering from a very painful Charlie Horse . . . He was knee-checked in Toronto and last night he aggravated the injury when he turned Toe Blake out with a flying block.

Jack Portland is worried over rumors that he's to be traded to the Americans . . . Roy Conacher is back and says that his wrist feels great . . . He'll start working out this week . . . Manager Ross, Coach Cooney Weiland and Capt. Clapper didn't return from Toronto with the club . . . They remained in the Queen City to watch some amateurs . . .

Mel Hill is taped and bandaged before every game by Trainer Win Green . . . Greenie must be doing a fine job, for Mel's knee hasn't given him the slightest trouble.

When Armand Raymond, who was brought up from the Rhode Island Reds, drew a penalty in the opening period, Coach Weiland ordered Woody Dumart to drop back on the defense and sent Art Jackson in at left wing . . . The Kraut line is the best two-way combination in the N. H. L., with plenty to spare.

After the Canadiens tied up the game, time was called while Jimmy McKenna, the French trainer, patched up Claude Bourque's glove . . . For all the shots the Bruins had on him, Bourque could have played barehanded during that period . . . The official gave Claude just ONE save . . . Jack Crawford hit Lou Trudel a very solid check in the middle stanza but Lou came right back and almost scored.

Woody Dumart has scored twice this season on penalty shots . . . He beat Mike Karakas of the Blackhawks on Christmas night and duplicated that feat last night by scoring on Bourque.

Well, the Chicago Blackhawks broke the Rangers streak . . . Of the four games Rangers have lost this season, two have been to Chicago . . . Paul Goodman is the fair-haired boy with the Chicago fans . . . He had turned in two shutouts prior to stopping Rangers.

The Rangers have been getting very jittery of late while trying to break Les Canadiens' 1929-30 record of 18 games without a defeat . . . In Toronto on Saturday night, Kangers cleared the puck from center ice time and time again after Phil Watson's goal had put them out in front in the third period . . . To go from the middle of November to the middle of January without a defeat is a remarkable feat . . . But, Rangers are one of the greatest of all time N. H. L. teams.

Stuff About Steeds

By Ken Kling

(Author's note—Here is the second letter we received from our 13-year-old son, who remained in New York with his mother while we made a solo trip to Miami on business.)

Dear Pop: That letter to Mama saying that you had to remain in Miami to put over some coups has ner suspicious. She says there might be some CHICKENS in those COUPS, so is planning to leave for Miami Monday. All I know about married life is what I read in the funnies, and according to them, the husband usually has a swell time while he is on a vacation. Therefore I can induce Mama to postpone her trip down there by faking a pain in the stomach or something. All I ask in return is an increase in my weekly allowance. Write to me immediately.

Love, WOODIE.

Dear Woodie: Am looking forward to seeing you all here in Miami Tuesday. Hope you won't have any trouble smuggling the dog into your compartment. Be sure to keep the bird in a different place, because a dog gets pretty hungry on a long train-ride and he may consider a bright yellow canary a light lunch. Am arranging to send you to school here, although I don't think you will get along as well as you do in New York. The seats in the classrooms are far apart, so your arithmetic marks won't be so hot. Tell mama to phone my bookie before she leaves and place bets for me on Calumet Red, Success Story, and Opening Night. The last named goes at New Orleans, and the first two at Hialeah. Tell her that I expect to have a hot one Tuesday—horse, not time—the horse has nine letters in its name.

Love, POPS.

Pierce Sees Progress In U. S. Golf

(This article is one of several written for the Associated Press by sports leaders, in which they review outstanding events and trends of 1939 and indicate likely developments in 1940.)

By HAROLD W. PIERCE
President, United States Golf Association

Golf's prospects for the next 12 months appear to be bright enough, if looked at from the standpoint of the United States alone.

However, nations today, through the various sources of communication, are so close that the tragic events occurring elsewhere are bound to affect golfing activities in other lands.

A Curtis Cup match scheduled abroad for next spring between teams of British and United States women has been cancelled. There is serious doubt whether Britain's leading men amateurs will come here for a Walker Cup match scheduled for the St. Paul Town and Country Club Aug. 30-31, or whether there will be any sort of international match.

BALL STANDARD SOUGHT

Forgetting, if we can, the international situation, we can look forward to what should be a year of continued progress for golf here. The U. S. G. A.'s four championships are on a coast-to-coast schedule—the amateur in Mamaroneck, N. Y.; the women's in Del Monte, Calif.; the open in Cleveland, and the public links in Detroit.

The year may bring legislation that will limit the distance a golf ball will travel. The golf association, at considerable cost and with the assistance of the Armour Institute in Chicago, has built a machine which now is being perfected.

LIMIT ON "SCORING"

It is hoped also to limit the scoring of iron clubs, so that it will not be possible to put undue "cut" or backspin on a ball. By its supervision in these and other directions, the association aims to continue the progress of the game.

The U. S. G. A. greens section is continuing its scientific work in matters of golf courses and general maintenance.

Many of the green-keeping methods in common use are traceable to the greens section's activities; it has thus had much to do with making United States courses so pleasant to play and with reducing the cost of their upkeep, a real factor in making the game available to increasing numbers of people.

It seems reasonable to expect that public-course golf will continue to grow, as will the game in college and schools. The U. S. G. A. will carry on its educational efforts regarding the rules of golf and the amateur definition.

INTERESTING YEAR

The past year was an interesting one, especially on the competitive side. Byron Nelson won the open championship after a double play-off in which he, Craig Wood and Denny Shute orginally were involved, while Marvin Ward, one stroke out of this tie, later won the amateur title.

ACID STOMACH ULCERS

Olympic Coach Gives Advice For Silver Skates Contenders

By OLYMPIAN

Knowledge and judgment of pace is a prime requisite for contestants in races in the great Silver Skates Derby, to be held under the combined auspices of the Boston American-Record-Sunday Advertiser in the Garden on Feb. 4th.

This important tip comes from Lawson Robertson, American Olympic Trainer and one of the world's leading authorities on training and conditioning.

Robertson is of the opinion that lack of judgment of pace, more than faulty conditioning, is responsible for so many youngsters blowing up and falling by the wayside after mid-race.

FOLLOW PACE

"In speed skating," says the famous Olympic trainer, "contestants not only must master judging pace but they must learn to follow pace. Always there is the wild scramble away from the starting line and then the settling down in the wake of the trail breaker.

"Youngsters must learn to follow the pace with long, smooth, energy-saving strides and keep eternally alert for chances to improve position or to make the bid that will bring one over the line a winner.

"A contestant knows just how far he has to go. He must study himself and know just about how fast he can go to finish the distance. Then he must time and pace himself so he either will come down to the streich with a finishing burst to spare, or else skate the other contestants off their feet in the early and middle stages and yet have enough reserve left himself to cross the line.

"Because of poor judgment of pace you see many youngsters skate themselves silly in the early stages and then find themselves unable to finish or hopelessly out of it on the bell lap. Contestants must judge their pace so they can finish—and finish strongly."

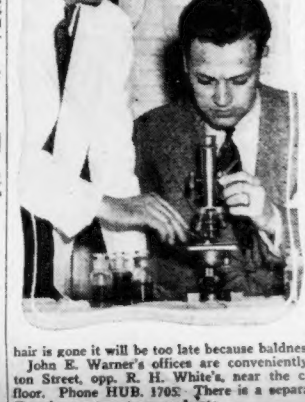
Leighton Noble Consults John E. Warner About His Hair



BOSTON, Jan. 14 (J.W.)—Leighton Noble, whose famous orchestra is now appearing at the Statler, knows that his good head of hair is one of his real assets. For this reason he consults and takes treatment from John E. Warner, New England's leading hair and scalp specialist, as have so many other celebrities. Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through treatment by John E. Warner but no case is ever accepted for treatment unless beneficial results are certain. Any person can go to John E. Warner's offices for a free private examination and consultation with the certainty that they will receive a thoroughly honest analysis of their hair and scalp. If you are losing your hair consult John E. Warner now before it is too late. 85% of all baldness is due to local scalp conditions which can be corrected and checked if caught in time. When your hair is gone it will be too late because baldness is a permanent condition.

John E. Warner's offices are conveniently located at 515 Washington Street, opp. R. H. White's, near the corner of West Street. 7th floor. Phone HUB. 1705. There is a separate department for women. Fees for treatment are moderate. Adv.
